Investigation of the Oil Trust.

DEADLOCK IN THE HOUSE.

Democratic Caucus Regarding the Admission of Territories Into the Union.

[Associated Press Dispatches to the HERALD.]

WASHINGTON, April 7.—The House Committee on Manufactures resumed investigation of the Oil Trust to-day. David Kirk, of Bradford, Pa., member of the Producers' Association, said that the Association was organized as a protection against the Standard Oil Trust. It had two thousand members. After its formation it was found that a great deal of capital would be required to build the new system's pipe line, etc., and so negotiations were opened with the Standard, and an agreement reached by the Standard to give the Association the profits on 5,000,000 barrels of oil, if the Association would agree to cut down the production 17,000 barrels per day, and refrain from opening new wells. The first act of the Association after this was to set aside the profits of 1,000,000 barrels for the labor affected by the shutdown. Then they went back to the Standard and squeezed another million barrels from it for the same purpose. There had been a daily average reduction of 25,000 barrels since the contract had been in force. The Standard the witness said, laid every possible obstacle in the way of competition. Representative Smith asked the witness if, when the Association was formed, they thought they could by the legistative enactments of Pennsylvania compel the Standard Oil Company to carry oil to every body. The witness said: Yes; we were "suckers," though. Think so? I certainly thought they should regulate a monster they had created. The witness thought the pipe lines should be owned by the State.

Parliamentary Tactics.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—The House met this morning at 11:30 in continuation of Wednesday's session. Taylor having demanded the regular order, the speaker stated that the pending question was upon motion of Mr. Taylor, that the House resolve itself into a committee of the whole on the Direct Tax bill. Oates was immediately on hand with a motion for recess until 2 o'clock, which was supplemented by Weaver with a motion to substitute four o'clock, and was further supplemented by Breckenridge with a motion substituting three o'clock. At the conclusion of roll call Oates inquired whether the friends of the bill would permit three hours debate upon it without condition. Reed said they were ready to grant any time which might be required for a full and complete debate, desiring simply that the previous question be considered as ordered and a vote be taken on the passage of the bill at some definite time. Oates said the gentlemen on the other side were conscious of their power to vote down every amendment and pass the bill, leaving the opponents no opportunity to compromise. All legislation proceeded on the idea of compromise, and if he agreed that the previous question should be ordered on the bill in advance, all the majority would have to do would be to vote down every amendment. Reed replied that under the constitution the majority was competent to decide what amendments it would adopt, what bills it would pass, and what it would refuse to pass. The majority was

EAGER TO ALLOW

Any amount of debate and any number of amendments. If the amendments were adopted the matter would go into conference. If not the bill would pass as it stood, and would pass by virtue of having a majority of the representatives in favor of it. Oates said that under the rules of the House, the regular course was that when a general debate ended in the committee of the whole, a bill should be read paragraph by paragraph, for amendment and debate, under the five minutes rule. When the consideration of a bill was completed, the majority could report it to the House and the previous question could be ordered upon. Reed suggested that the majority was endeavoring to proceed in the regular order, but the proceedings were interrupted by the gentleman and his friends. The attempt to compromise having failed, the battle was resumed. After another roll call Taylor proposed that the House go into Committee of the Whole, general debate on the Direct Tax bill to be limited to one hour. Oates said he would make answer to that proposition in an hour or so. Taylor suggested that the gentleman might have until Monday to consider the proposition if he wished to make a motion for recess until that day. By unanimous consent the House took a recess until 11:45 on Monday. The parliamentary status of the bill remains unchanged.

Capital Notes.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—The Secretary of State is in receipt of a dispatch from General Bragg, United States Minister to Mexico, enclosing a copy of the order from the department of war of Mexico, calling attention to the late trespasses of the frontier by Mexican troops and saying that despite the severity with which the law dealt with Nogales and the offenders in 1887, these violations of the friendly Territory still continue. The Mexican troops, and officers especially, are therefore cautioned to be more vigiliant in the future, under penalty of punishment such as the military law provides in case of further violations of this character.

The Democratic members of the House held a caucus to-night to decide upon the cause of policy in the admission of the territories. The following resolution was adopted on motion of Springer:

Resolved, That it is the sense of this caucus that an enabling act for the Territories of Dakota, Montana, Washington and New Mexico should be passed at this session providing for the constitutional convention in each Territory and submission of those constitutions for ratification or rejection at an election in November, 1888, substantially as provided for in the bill reported by the Committee on Territories. The caucus also adopted a resolution requesting the Committee on Rules to fix the time for considering the bills forfeiting unearned railroad land grants, etc. Just before adjournment a suggestion was made that a caucus be held Monday night for the purpose of taking steps to break the existing deadlock in the House. It became apparent, however, that a dangerous subject had been broached, and to prevent a possibility of a split in the caucus the matter was dropped. A sub-committee of the Appropriations Committee has completed the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bills.

Representative Felton left for California last night in order to attend the wedding of his daughter.

Colonel John H. King (retired) died at his home in Washington last night.

THE FIRE COMMISSION.

Business Transacted at Yesterday's Meeting.

The Board of Fire Commissioners met in regular session yesterday afternoon in the Mayor's office, with Mayor Workman in the chair. Mr. Anderson and Mr. Conwell appeared before the Board and asked permission to erect a two-story corrugated iron building to be used as a steam laundry and shirt factory, on Main street, between Macy and Alameda streets. They presented a petition giving the consent of the owners of the adjoining property, and were allowed to go on with the building, providing they erected a tank and had a hose in connection with the building. Mr. John Wigmore appeared before the Board and asked permission to enlarge a building by one story on South Los Angeles street, near First street. He stated he would put up a veneered building, and had obtained the permission of Mr. C. J. Fox the owner of the property. Matter postponed for one week.

Mr. Widney appeared before the Board and asked if it would not rescind a portion of the fire ordinance. He wanted to build and improve property on First street, east of Alameda, and the fire limits prevented the erection of frame buildings. He was requested to get up a petition from the residents in that neighborhood and bring it before the Board at the next meeting.

Mr. H. C. Vincent appeared before the Board and asked permission to erect a one-story frame building at No 513, West Fifth street, for the benefit of Mr. Lumarzette, who was shot at the time of the Los Angeles Furniture Company's fire. Applicant asked to get the permission of the residents in that neighborhood.

Mr. F. W. Warner asked the Board to give him a testimonial regarding the exhibition of the Eddison Fire Extinguisher. The Board passed the following resolution "That from inspecting the working of the Eddison Fire Extinguisher, it is the sense of the Board that the extinguisher is no doubt of great value in putting out a fire in its incipiency, and thus prove of great benefit in preventing the rapid spread of flames."

Mr. E. Gray asked permission to raise his house, and put a lower story under it on Vine street. Referred to Chief of Fire Department and Commissioner Teed.

A communication was received from Messers. Palmer & Ray Vos. 115 and 117 North Los Angeles street, asking permission to maintain an engine and boiler in that building. Granted.

The following firemen were elected to positions on the department. Gustav Schutte, extra man of Ninth street engine house. L. W. Hahn, extra man of East Los Angeles. Charles Clark, to engine No. 5. Geo. McClean, foreman of No. 1 engine house. Chas. A. Goff and J. Murphy permanent men in No. 1 engine house. Jos. Bree, call-man East Los Angeles Engine House. Frank E. Lewis, permanent driver of hook and ladder. Wm. Crumb, call-man of Engine House No. 3. Wm. D. Martin, call-man of Engine No. 1, East Los Angeles. Sam Dugan, call-man Engine No. 4.

The resignations of A. Meyers and Charles Bilderbeck were received and accepted.

Adjourned.

Miss Bruno's Dramatic Performance.

A large audience assembled at the Armory Hall last night to witness the dramatic performance of Miss Helen Bruno's company. Miss Bruno, as "Kitty Gaythorne," in Cut Off with a Shilling, and "Lady Clara Seymour," in a Cup of Tea, filled her rôles admirably and displayed her undoubted talent to great advantage. Owing to the non-arrival of two of her company, Mr. Button and wife, she was unable to appear in Book III, Chapter I, as announced; but owing to her brilliant recitation of the French piece Les Adieux de Jeanne d'Arc, her auditors went away with no apparent disappointment at the change in the programme.

Grain Sacks Cornered.

The San Francisco market has succeeded in cornering grain bags, and now holds new importations at 8 cents each. Mr. F. M. Keach, of this city, is fighting the corner here, and is selling English bags for May delivery at 5½ cents in New York. There is a large demand for them at that price, and he disposed of 125,000 bags on Friday, and orders are still pouring in.

Bad for Burglars.

Mr. A. J. Haley, of this city, is the inventor of a new safety lock. It is a very ingenious device, and looks as if it deserves it title of "burglar proof." By changing a pin the entire combination of the lock can be changed, thus forming a complete safeguard against duplicate or skeleton keys.

Pictured Events.

From root to top and blossom The Cactus in its issue yesterday was as bright as the sunshine and the spirit of nature in which it flourishes. Carl Browne is not only ubiquitous but industrious, and from his coigne of vantage he gathers in every matter of local interest and exemplifies it with his facile pencil and pen.

COAST NEWS.

St. Helena's Monster Wine Cellar.

OVER THE DIAMOND FIELD.

Freight Trains Collide—Bay District Races—Ocean Shore Road.

[Associated Press Dispatches to the HERALD.]

ST. HELENA, April 7.—At the meeting of wine growers this afternoon, the balance of the subsidy for the Bourne Wise wine cellar was raised and work on the enterprise will commence Monday. The cellar will have a frontage of four hundred feet, will be three stories high and will have a capacity of two million gallons. The building, cooperage and equiptments will cost upwards of three hundred thousand dollars.

Central's New Plea.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 7.—A Washington special to the Examiner says that when the Senate special committee on the Pacific railway bill met today Creed Haymond, the Solicitor-General of the Central Pacific railway, concluded his argument on behalf of the corporation. Mr. Haymond said: In the case of the Union and Central compared, I have attempted to point out the difference in the status of the two transcontinental companies growing out of the nature of things. The Trunk Line of the Union Pacific road runs through the Platte river bottoms, the garden spot of the West; the trunk line of the Central Pacific road runs through a country which cannot support a heavy population; the land of which is not arable and adjacent to which are no rich valleys which could be made tributary to that road. The grant to the Union Pacific was a garden; that to the Central Pacific a desert. The line of the Union Pacific road, aided, is 1,038 miles in length, while the aided line of the Central and Western Pacific combined is but 860 miles. The Government sustained great expense in protecting the construction forces of the Union Pacific, but not a dollar to that end was expended by the Government on the Central line.

The Central Pacific claims that there were certain equities in its favor under the creating act, and though the Pacific Railroad Commission gave little attention to these considerations, and, indeed, say as to some of them, that they do not constitute a legal claim enforcible in the courts of law; but they have lost sight of the fact that Congress passed on March 3, 1887, and the President approved, an Act recognizing that equities did exist between the Government and the road that must be considered before any adjustment of differences is finally made.

The Wilbur Line.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 7.—A gentleman from Fresno said to-day that the money in aid of the Wilbur line would probably all be subscribed soon: "Wilbur and his associates will get what they have been seeking all along—a subsidy of two hundred thousand dollars, and with that money they can build a road from Antioch to Fresno. I don't say that is all it will cost to construct such a line, but with that amount in hand they will find no trouble in obtaining a sufficient amount elsewhere. It practically assures the building of the line. The line will cost altogether about $840,000. There is hardly any doubt that in less than a year rails will be laid from Antioch to Fresno. South of Fresno the progress will be rapid until the Tejon Pass has been reached. There the company will have uphill work in more senses than one. By that time, however, it may secure expected aid from the A. T. & S. F., and the line will then be pushed through to the Mojave and Santa Fe."

Riddled with Bullets.

FRESNO, April 7.—Tom Patterson, who broke jail at Visalia a month ago, where he had been sent for safe keeping pending an appeal to the Supreme Court, for robbery and assault to commit murder on Henry Hely, a farmer residing near here, was found yesterday near Summit Lake, this county, by Sheriff Meade and Sheriff Parker, of Tulare county, and six other officers in a thickly wooded sage-brush country, where he had erected a hut of sage-brush, where he had evidently lived most of the time since his escape. The posse approached within 150 yards, when they called out to him to throw up his hands. The order was unheeded and Patterson reached for a gun, when the officers opened fire with their rifles. Patterson fell, and on approaching him he was found riddled with bullets but conscious. He lived one hour, and was brought here last night. The Coroner's jury exonerated the officers. Patterson evidently had friends who knew of his whereabouts. In the camp was found fresh bread, canned fruit and other delicacies.

New San Pedro Boat.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 7.—The new steam schooner being built by C. S. White at his yard at the foot of Powell street, is nearly completed, and is waiting for her boiler to be put in place, when she will be launched. She is being built for Ray, Garthwaite & Jenks, and when finished will engage in the lumber trade plying between Fort Bragg, San Pedro, San Diego and this port. She is 147 feet over all, 32 feet 4 inches beam, and has a depth of hold of 10 feet 6 inches. She will be commanded by Captain J. W. Jenks, one of her owners, and will probably be named Julia N. Ray, after the wife of another of her owners. She will have a carrying capacity of from 360,000 to 400,000 feet of lumber and also be fitted up for the accommodation of twenty-five passengers.

Bay District Races.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 7.—Following is the result of the Bay District races to-day: First race, one and one-sixteenth miles, Fusilade's Last, won, Bobro, second, King Alfred, third; time, 1:53½. One mile, dash, two best in three Sid won in two straight heats; Hermes, second, Adeline third; best time, 1:44. Three quarter mile race, Belshaw won, Johnny Gray second, John S third; time 1:16. One half mile splurge, Hancock won, Joe Chamberlin second; time, 50. Norton was held at the start, and the judges declared no race.

Ocean Shore Railroad.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 7.—W. H. Hart, who is just back from Los Angeles, says that Huntington and Crocker have secured control of the Long Beach and Improvement Company, which owns the railroad running from Long Beach to the junction with the Southern Pacific Company's San Pedro line. The people of the town of Long Beach have granted the Los Angeles & Ocean Shore Railroad Company the right of way through their streets and on to Rattlesnake Island. The Island line is supposed to be located by one of two large interests, either that of Gould or the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe.

The Diamond.

STOCKTON, April 7.—The third meeting between the Stocktons and Greenhood and Morans in this city to-day resulted disastrously to the Oakland pets, who were easily defeated by a score of 9 to 3. Harper made his debut as a California League pitcher was very effective the first inning, and allowing only but five hits and having ten strike-outs. Flynn of the Stocktons was equally as effective, having one less hit against him. Whitehead and Selna carried off the fielding honor and Selna lead in the batting.

Army Whispers.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 7.—It is reported that the impression prevails among army officers here that the recent appointment of General Crook as Major-General will cause General Howard to be transferred to the command of the Division of the Missouri with headquarters at Chicago, and that General Crook will be assigned to the command of the Division of the Pacific. It is intimated that General Howard will be given the option of remaining here or of going to Chicago, and that he prefers the latter city.

What Road This?

SAN DIEGO, April 7.—A party of surveyors are at work in the neighborhood of Potrero running a line towards San Diego. A gentleman who met the party yesterday says the Chief Engineer declined to state in the interest of what company they were employed, but the inference left on his mind was that they had been sent out by the Southern Pacific. A member of the party said they had come direct from Yuma and were running a bee line to San Diego.

Freight Trains Collide.

SAN DIEGO, April 7.—The north bound freight train left San Diego at an early hour this morning in two sections. Between Perry and Colton, in mounting a steep grade, the rear portion of the first section broke away, and, running back, collided with the second section. The engineer and fireman jumped from the engine and escaped injury. The engine is a total wreck. The caboose and two freight cars of the first section were totally destroyed.

Gun and Trap.

SAN DIEGO, April 7.—Crittenden Robinson, who holds the championship of this State as a trap shooter, has arranged a match with Martinus Chick, who claims the championship of Southern California, and who recently defeated Dr. Carver. The match is to be shot at Los Angeles, at 100 live birds, and will be for a stake of $1,000.

Hoy Robbers.

RED BLUFF, April 7.—Three boys named respectively O'Connor, Thompson and Barsfield, were arrested last night and lodged in jail, charged with the robbery of J. O'Connor's house. Young O'Connor, son of J. O'Connor, confessed taking a box with money, watches, jewelry, etc., from his father's house.

Wasted Efforts.

STOCKTON, April 7.—The Republican County Committee to-day elected the following delegates to the State Convention: William Englis, S. D. Woods, A. W. Simpson, J. H. O'Brien, N. Nevin, John Patterson, Arthur Thornton, J. M. White, C. E. Nathan, Wm. Pile, B. T. Foster, Geo. B. Sperry and R. C. Johnson.

Coast Brevities.

J. Miller Moore has been appointed Railway Mail Clerk between Albuquerque and Los Angeles, in place of J. A. Woods, resigned.

The Republican County Central Committee of Kern county have appointed A. Brown, of Knoxville, W. H. Scribner and S. C. Smith, of Bakersfield, delegates to the Republican State Convention.

Judge Murphy, of San Francisco, yesterday sentenced J. F. Jeffereys, who shot and killed George Souther to seven years and six months imprisonment at San Quentin.

Jacob Winter, of Anaheim, recently arrested on a charge of wife beating, attempted to commit suicide in his cell last night by cutting his throat. His condition is considered dangerous.

Theodore H. Allen, an insurance agent of Portland, Ore., and a son of Commodore Allen, of San Francisco, died yesterday of malignant typhoid fever. He leaves a wife and two children.

The Chamber of Commerce of San Diego will organize as a corporation with a capital of half a million of dollars, and will devote three hundred thousand dollars of this sum to the erection of a Chamber of Commerce building, one hundred thousand for a permanent exposition building and one hundred thousand in legitimate advertising. The details of the plan are yet to be fully arranged.

Sheriff Cunningham, of Stockton, has received a dispatch from Idaho stating that Henry James, who killed a man named Dougherty at Lodi a year ago, has been arrested there. The Sheriff has gone to Sacramento to procure papers, and will go thence to Idaho. After the crime was committed James escaped to Galt, and was carried thence in a box to Sacramento by a Chinaman.

CENTENNIAL CELEBRATION.

Sporting Items and Doings—The Ithaca Giant Wins—Southwestern Floods.

[Associated Press Dispatches to the HERALD.]

MARIETTA, Ohio, April 7.—The City hall was too small to accommodate the throng that gathered this beautiful morning to celebrate the one hundredth anniversary of the landing of General Rufus Putnam and his band from the Mayflower. The first formal part of the programme to-day was the address of welcome by Governor Foraker, who alluded warmly to the memories they were celebrating, particularly the effective and good works of Mannaseh Cutler and his associates and co-laborers in demanding and securing, as a condition precedent to their occupation of this soil of the great northwestern territory, its first organic law, that immortal instrument the ordinance of 1789, and the generous, liberal and patriotic action of Virginia, North and South Carolina, Georgia and Delaware in voting, as they did by their representatives in the old Continental Congress that slavery although a domestic institution with them should not be allowed to put its accursed blight on this fair heritage. Senator Geo. F. Hoar, of Massachusetts, was then introduced and delivered the oration of the day.

After the oration of Senator Hoar was delivered ex-President Hayes was called out and made a brief address, spirited and eloquent. He was followed by Bernard Petters, editor of the Brooklyn Times, in a graphic sketch of the German pioneers. In the afternoon several overflow meetings were held in the churches, while at the city hall Hon. J. Randolph Tucker made an oration. He was followed by Hon. E. E. Hale.

Marietta at New York.

NEW YORK, April 7.—The gathering at Delmonico's to-night was the occasion of the third annual banquet of the Ohio Society of New York, and at the same time the centennial anniversary of the first settlement of Ohio at Marietta, on April 7, 1788. President Thomas Ewing, arm in arm with General W. T. Sherman, led the march into the dining room, followed by Hon. Chauncey M. Depew, General Wager Swayne, Ex-Governor George Headley, Hon. Stephen B. Elkins, Carson Locke, B. F. Peixotto, Hon. Whitelaw Reid, S. P. Avery, Richard Butler, A. M. Ferais, W. Cochran, W. W. Este, O. P. Shaffer, William A. Rogers, Hon. William Windom, Hon. B. F. Jones, Hon. Murat Halstead Hon. J. H. Bristow, George Alfred Townsend, Andrew J. Rickoff, J. B. Leavitt, Abner C. Thomas, Mayor Hewitt, C. C. Shaine, J. D Tayler, W. H. Ekert, Hon. Chas. A. Dana, Ben Lefevre, Calvin S. Brice, Cornelius N. Bliss and about two hundred other gentlemen. Letters of regret were received from General Phil. H. Sheridan, Senator John Sherman, Governor Hill, Congressman Charles A. Grosvenor, Governor Foraker, Congressman E. S. Williams, ex-Congressman John E. Follett, Senator Allison, ex-Governor Bishop M. E. Ingalls, John R. McLean, ex-Senator Harrison of Indiana, Senator Jones of Nevada, Senator Manderson of Nebraska, R. F. Kennedy and Senator Plumb of Kansas. It was 9 o'clock when the speaking began. General Thomas Ewing was the principal speaker.

Shocking Suicides.

NEW YORK, April 7.—Hans Stackried and his wife Fannie, a handsome woman twenty-one years of age, took a dose of poison early this morning, and died within an hour of each other after being removed to the St. Vincent Hospital. The husband was a polish Jew and had been out of work for some time. His wife was compelled to pawn almost everything she had of any value. Finally the father and mother and a five-months-old baby boy, had to live on crusts of bread picked from the street refuse barrels. The family lived in one room. About midnight a Mrs. Derring heard an unusual noise in the Stackrieds' room. She went out into the hallway, and there saw Stackried, who looked as though he was intoxicated. His face was ghastly pale, his eyes glared and large beads of perspiration stood out on his face, and fearing the man might attack her, Mrs. Derring rushed back into her room and slammed the door too. At about 2 o'clock Stackried knocked at her door, and upon Mrs. Derring opening it, he said, while his face grew black and blue: "We have taken poison; my wife and I." Then he suddenly fell to the floor. Entering the Stackried room, Mrs. Derring found the wife lying on a sofa as if dead, with her babe clasped to her breast. In a minute or so, she opened her eyes and said, faintly: "Go for the police, we are dying." An ambulance was summoned and both were removed to the hospital. The husband died at five o'clock, and his wife an hour later. The babe was at once transferred to the care of Matron Webb at the police headquarters.

Gas City Failure.

PITTSBURG, April 7.—Owing to the depression in the pipe trade and to the labor troubles, which caused a stoppage of the mills for nearly four months, the Elma Iron and Bolt Company, and Continental Tube Company have suspended payment. Their liabilities are $527,000, and their assets, consisting of valuable manufacturing sites, mills, etc., amount to over $900,000. The mills, when in full operation, employ 800 men. The suspension caused no excitement, and it is thought that the creditors will grant the firm an extension.

Blue Grass Floods.

CHICAGO, April 7.—A dispatch from Evansville, Ind., says: A very severe rain and windstorm swept over Union and Livingston counties, Ky., this morning. Reports of considerable damage are just coming in and indicate that the country about Uniontown suffered much, barns being blown down and large forests swept away. One death is reported, that of an unknown man, who was killed by a falling tree near Caseyville.

Kanuck Kickers.

OTTAWA, Ont., April 7.—The great debate on unrestricted reciprocity, which has lasted for three weeks in the House of Commons and in which seventy-two members have spoken, terminated at 4:15 this morning. Mr. Jones' amendment to the amendment in favor of unrestricted reciprocity in trade and reciprocity in coasting with the United States was rejected by a vote of 124 to 67, and the Government's amendment to Cartwright's meeting was carried by the same vote.

Before adjournment Sir John MacDonald announced that if Sir Charles Tupper was sufficiently well on Tuesday the Fisheries Treaty would be taken up. The House then adjourned, the members singing "God save the Queen."

Terrific Explosion.

NEWBURGH, N. Y., April 7.—The "big mogul" freight engine exploded on the Erie Railroad at Craigville last evening. The conductor, John Clark, engineer, John Bodine and firemen Boyce, were killed. The explosion hurled the bodies several hundred feet over the stream into the adjoining town. Other parts of the machinery are scattered in all directions. The report of the explosion was heard miles around. Windows of houses were broken and only the heavy driving wheels are left on the track.

Quickly Captured.

NOGALES, April 7.—Three of the bandits who attacked the two Frenchmen yesterday have been captured and are in jail. They were caught in a gulch by Chief Garivan's party. A woman Manula Gonzales, is also imprisoned. The names of the captured men are Martiano Lopez, Juan Sombria, and Gaudalupe Sierras. The first named admitted the guilt of the party.

Clow and Conley.

ASHLAND, Wis., April 7,—The fight between John P. Clow and Mike Conley, the "Ithaca Giant," took place to-night. It resulted, much to the surprise of every body in Clow being badly whipped. His backers refused to allow him to respond to the call of time in the fourth aound and Conley was declared the winner.

Pauper Brutality.

STOCKTON, April 7.—The unknown man found dead last night near the railroad track at South Lodi, was brutally neglected. It has been ascertained that the Italian section hands on the road had seen him lying where he died for two days, suffering with a loathsome disease and had given him no food or water.

Steamers Arrived.

PLYMOUTH, April 7.—The Wieland, from New York, for Hamburg.

NEW YORK, April 7.—The City of Chester, from Liverpool, and the Ems, from Bremen.

QUEENSTOWN, April 7.—The Baltimore, from Baltimore.

HAVRE, April 7.—The La Bretagne, from New York, for Plymouth.

Blaine of Maine.

AUGUSTA, Me., April 7.—Letters received to-day from Blaine state that the family will start for Paris in about two weeks, and that after spending a short time there will make a trip through Norway and Sweden. They will arrive in this country on the last of June.

Teemer's Time.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., April 7.—Teemer, McKay and Hamm rowed a sculling race on the St. John's river this afternoon during a thunder and rain storm. The course was three miles. Teemer had a walk over. Time, 23 mins. 10½ seconds.

Burlington Affairs.

CHICAGO, April 7.—There was no general strike of the yardmasters on the "Q" road last night as reported. Three yardmasters at Sixteenth street quit work, having become disgusted with the men they had to work with in the yards.

East of the Rockies.

Roscoe Conkling is reported as very much better.

General Q A. Gilmore died yesterday morning at his residence.

In the special legislative elections of Rhode Island yesterday the Republicans made a clean sweep.

The principal business block of Cherokee, Kansas, was burned yesterday. The loss is between $75,000 and $100,000. Insurance light.

Samuel W. Brooks, father of Hugh M. Brooks alias W. H. Maxwell, has written a long and touching appeal to the American people to help him save his boy from the gallows.

The body of an unknown American was recently found on the desert coast of San Barbalome Bay in Lower California by the officers of the Mexican gunboat Democrat. It is supposed that the man was put ashore by some vessel. The coast is not inhabited for miles around, there being no water.

Investigations made by the coroner show that Sutherland, better known as Senator Bob Hart, the evangelist, killed himself. He left a letter explaining his act, and declaring his innocence of the charge that he criminally assaulted Stella Brightman, a 15 year old girl who belonged to his church at Rockville Centre.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Reynolds, of Los Vegas, arrived at Albuquerque yesterday morning. On the way to a hotel, Mr. Reynolds let a pistol drop from the pocket of his overcoat which he had on his arm, and striking the pavement the revolver discharged, the bullet striking Mrs. Reynolds in the heart, killing her instantly.

One of the queerest episodes that ever occurred in New York City was the funeral of Jacob Sharp, which occurred yesterday at his late residence. The utmost secrecy marked the arrangements, and no one was allowed to enter the house except by an invitation specially sent by the family. Even visitors evidently had been instructed not to give any information about the affair, and when questioned denied that the funeral was taking place.

GERMANY.

Prince Bismarck Will Not Resign.

THE CONSERVATIVES AWAKE.

Queen Victoria Will Have Her Way—The Empress' Party Ascendant.

[Associated Press Dispatches to the HERALD.]

BERLIN, April 7.—Prince Alexander of Battenburg, goes to Charlottenberg next Thursday, and his betrothal to Princess Victoria takes place early in June. Prince Bismarck has withdrawn his resignation solely from the consideration that Germany under the domination of Empress Victoria would lead to a speedy break-up of the German unity. Nothing since the accession of the Emperor Frederick has occurred that has so strongly animated the Russian conservatives against the Empress as the marriage question. All of the radics' newspapers treat the Battenburg [illegible] tion with disdain, and as of no consequence to the German policy and ignore the fact that Battenb[illegible] and only one chord in the general is cord struck by the party [illegible] the Empress. The reticence of the Berlin press, in referring to the court intrigues, has been greater than was required in deference to the Emperor and the leading officers of the State.

THE BATTENBURG MARRIAGE

Becomes almost a minor incident in court intrigues. Among other successful schemes the Emperor has been induced to send to Count Von Moltke a series of statements on the condition of the army, followed by a request that the General be present at the meetings of the commission on reforms in the army. Count Von Moltke replied that it would be impossible for him to preside over a commission without knowing how it was constituted and what reforms were desired. Consequently the commission has been dropped. Another move of the party of the Empress is to overhaul the diplomatic appointments.

To-night's National Zeitung says: Circumstances may arise under which Bismarck will no longer oppose the union. This, it may be, would mean the postponement of the affair until the political objections now raised shall cease to operate. The visit of the Queen of England to Charlottenberg therefore will take place as arranged, but the betrothal will not publicly be brought forward. This is an official statement and simply means that Bismarck's advice has been over-ruled. The Queen of England comes here with her Battenburg proteges to carry out her family projects without regard for the sentiments of the German nobility or the German people and equally regardless that her daughter, the Empress,

ENGLAND'S ATTITUDE.

LONDON, April 7.—The government is concerned in regard to the Berlin crisis. It fears a growing irritation in Germany against the Empress and her mother, Queen Victoria, will extend to the British nation, resulting in a destruction of the cordial relations now existing between the two empires. It is stated that Lord Salisbury has begged the Queen to desist from interfering in the controversy over the marriage of Prince Alexander and Princess Victoria.

In Faderland.

BERLIN, April 7.—To-day's bulletin says that the mal dy from which the Emperor is suffering appears to be moving from the back of the larynx more to the front, which is regarded by physicians as a favorable symptom because the danger of the disease attacking the œsophagus is thus averted.

The Empress will go to Posen on Monday to inquire into the condition of the sufferers by the flood. Dreadful accounts have been received from Posen. Two hundred and fifty villages are in ruins, and 15,000 persons are without shelter. When the dykes at Warthe gave way a large number of lives were lost. A famine is threatened in Posen, Pomerania and Silesia and the number of persons emigrating to America will soon be enormously increased.

English Coursing.

LONDON, April 7.—At the Leicester Spring Meeting to-day, the Wigstone plate, for two-year-olds, five furlongs, was won by Humphrey Ransford's bay colt Master Charlie, T. Jenning's chestnut colt, Lord George, second, and Lord Londonderry's bay filly, Boy Springfield out of Graselda, third. The Leicestershire spring handicap over a straight mile was won by the Duke of Portland's three-year-old bay colt Johnny Morgan by a length, J. Louther's six-year-old chestnut horse King Monmouth second, G. G. R. Homfray's brown horse Kinsky third.

GUILTY, OR NOT.

The Hattie Woolsteen Case Still on Trial.

CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE.

Ex-Chief of Police P. M. Darcy Cross-examined all the Afternoon.

The Woolsteen trial, which has claimed the attention of the court during the entire week, was resumed in Department No. 1, at 10 A. M. yesterday, by the introduction of J. H. Hiller, Jr., who testified: I reside on Los Angeles street, near Fifth. I am an employé in Mr. Adams' gunsmith shop. I remember having sold a pistol to a young lady about a week prior to hearing of the burning of the Barbey barn. The pistol was a 32-calibre, double action pearl handled pistol. I think I sold the pistol to her about 10 o'clock in the morning. She also purchased a box of cartridges. The lady was rather a large heavy built woman. She wore a brown dress. I think the lady paid me six dollars for the pistol and fifty cents for a box of cartridges. The pistol was an American double action central fire. She told me she wished the pistol for a young man on a ranch, and that if it was unsatisfactory she wished to return it. I don't think I could identify the pistol, but I could tell if it was similar in appearance. (Pistol introduced.) I could not say that this is the pistol the lady purchased, if it was one just like it, with perhaps the exception that it is marked "bull-dog," and I think the pistol I sold was marked "double action;" otherwise this pistol is exactly similar. "Bull dog" means the same thing as double action, but all bull dog pistols are not double action.

JNO. R. SPLANE

Testified: I reside in Los Angeles and am a grocery clerk. Prior to '88 I roomed at 545 S. Fort st. The Misses Woolsteen also roomed at that number. I remember having heard of the Barbey barn having been burned about the 7th of October. On the morning of the 7th at near 6:15 A. M. I saw Miss Hattie in the back yard sitting in a buggy. Her sister was putting a bridle on the horse. A Mr. Hass was with me at the time. We offered to assist them but Miss Minnie said "No I am used to such work." We were just going to work and had not had breakfast. During the night about two or three o'clock in the morning I heard a buggy drive in, turn round drive up near the house and stop. I did not hear it move from that spot. The horse was a dark one.

Cross-examined: I do not remember which one of us offered the ladies assistance. Miss Hattie was partially turned around in the buggy toward the back when I saw her. The top of the buggy was down, I think. We passed very near the ladies as we went by. On my preliminary examination I said nothing about having heard the horse and buggy come in at 3 o'clock in the morning. I was not asked about that and it did not occur to me. I went to my room about 9 o'clock that night. I had the toothache that night and did not retire until almost morning. I did not sleep at all that night. There was a window facing the alleyway. After the horse was hitched I looked out and saw the horse standing there. I heard it pawing through the night and know it stood there until morning. I slept none during the night.

D. A. ADAMS.

Testified: I am a gunsmith and have my place at 18 Commercial street. I remember the lady having purchased a pistol at my place near the 1st of October. The lady was just leaving my shop when I came in at the door. [Pistol exhibited.] I had pistols of this kind in my store at the time, but I can't say what kind of a pistol she purchased. I did not notice the lady and could not identify her.

Cross examination: The pistol is a common one; nearly all dealers carry the same kind of a pistol.

JOHN H. SIMPSON

Testified: I reside in East Los Anles. Am a merchant tailor and have my place of business at 353 N. Main street. (Curtain of the buggy in evidence given to the witness). From my experience I think I can tell whether cloth has been cut or torn. I am of the opinion that the hole in this curtain was made by a piece of the material having been cut out with some sharp instrument. I should say it was cut with a knife. The upper part of the hole might have been cut with a large pair of shears, but the lower portion must have been done with a knife.

EX-CHIEF P. M. DARCY.

Being called, testified: I reside in Los Angeles. Am not engaged in any particular business at the present time. In October last was chief of the police in this city. I remember having seen Miss Hattie Woolsteen several times prior to the burning of the Barbey barn at Compton. On Monday afterward she was at my office. I sent for her. Think I sent Detective Brady or Captain Fletcher. It was about 10 o'clock in the morning. The box of clothing, said to have been taken from the remains of the body found in the Barbey barn were brought to me on Sunday after the body was discovered. I do not know who brought the clothes to me. Drs. Bird and Shinn came to my office on Sunday evening and examined the clothing. I do not know what time they went out to Compton. I saw them after they returned. I saw Brady and he had been with them. It was two or three days after this that I sent for Miss Woolsteen. I had a conversation with her.

Q—State that conversation.

Objected to by the defense.

Court—What is your objection?

Attorney Stephens—The objection, your Honor, is that the prosecution now seeks a confession.

Court—I do not see that it is asking for a confession; however, it is leading to that and as I recognize that the question of voluntary confession will be raised, and as it is an important and vital one I will hear you now. The witness may be excused until the arguments on this are made.

An adjournment was taken until 2 P. M., in order to allow counsel to look up authorities.

Afternoon Session.

Court reconvened at 2 P. M. and almost the entire afternoon session was consumed in the examination of ex-Chief of Police Darcy. On examination for the State, he said in substance that there was no one present when he had the first interview with Hattie Woolsteen in his office, and he did not offer to her any threat or inducement that would have led her to hope or believe that it would be better for her to make a confession to him of what she knew about the murder of Dr. Harlan. The witness was then handed over to the defense, whose counsel subjected him to a long and caustic cross-examination.

In his testimony was included the following: It was the morning of the 12th of October Hattie Woolsteen first came to my office. She was invited there by me. I sent for her by an officer. I told him to tell Miss Woolsteen I wished to see her, and that she should come down. She came alone. To get to my office she had to go through the office occupied by the men of the force, then the clerk's office, and then into mine. She did not make a confession that morning. I said to her that she was the last person seen with Dr. Harlan, and wanted her to tell me what she knew about his disappearance. She denied knowing anything about it. I showed her the pieces of clothes saved from the fire. She cried when she saw them, but declared she did not know anything about it. I told her I thought she must know something, as she was seen with him last, but if not, she might go home, for I did not have any use for her if she knew nothing about the matter. Officer Brady was present during a part of the conversation. I had him take down part of her statement—that part telling where she came from, how long she was here, and what she knew about Dr. Harlan. Do not think Brady was present during all of the interview. Hattie remained probably an hour or an hour and a half. I did not tell her when she could go, as I did not consider I was detaining her. She was there again that night. She was brought by an officer at 9 or 10 o'clock. Do not know whether she was taken out of bed. Do not know whether more than one man went after her. I had a conversation with her again that night. I again told her she must know something about Harlan's disappearance, and I wanted her to tell me what she knew. She knew I was Chief of Police. Do not know whether Brady had a conversation with her. Do not know whether he or Fletcher told her she had better tell me all. I did not say to any one I would scare her into a confession. The first morning I was in the office when she came in. I was there the whole time, and left her in charge of no one.

RE-DIRECT EXAMINATION.

The defense here rested for the time being, and re-direct examination was resumed. The witness said: After she denied knowing anything about the affair at our first interview, I called Mr. Brady in and he took a scrapbook as I directed him and wrote down her statement. She said she came from within six miles of Peoria, Ill., where her father lived on a farm. He gave her sister and her each $200 to come out here. They first went to Chicago, thence to St. Louis, Kansas City and Denver and then here. She then told where they staid and worked until June, when they took a room at 514 Fort street and lived there until this occurrence. She met Dr. Harlan soon after coming here, and she and her sister had some work done by him. After the work was done the Doctor said he would like to come to see her at her room and she allowed him to call. She received other callers besides at 514. She said she never was in Los Angeles before. I asked her when she saw Harlan last. She said the Friday night before our conversation. She said the day before this occured she rode to Whittier with him, then to Compton, where they got out at Steven's place, had some fruit, and inquired after land and then returned to town. It was night when they arrived and he escorted her home. She said she saw him the evening of this occurrance. He asked if her sister was going out to the theater, and he left before her sister and her escort returned. She did not say anything about Mrs. Barbey to me at this time. Am not positive whether I interrogated her about Mrs. Barbey. If she made any statements about Mrs. Barbey, do not know whether they were made Monday forenoon or evening. Think this first conversation was on October 12th. Had conversations at subsequent times. The next was at 9 or 10 o'clock that evening. I did not use any threats or menaces. No one else did to my knowledge. The confession was made in my office. No one was present. I held out no hopes or promises whatever.

Q.—You did no say to her, she had better tell you you all or it would be the worse for her?

A.—I did not.

CROSS-EXAMINED.

Mr. Stephens, of the defense, at this point again took the witness for cross-examination, and had him recount the story of the two interviews with Hattie Woolsteen on October 12th. It was endeavored to make the witness confess that he had Miss Woolsteen brought by force for the purpose of compelling her to make a confession. The witness said: I simply told Officer Brady to go again to 514 Fort street and tell Hattie I desired to see her again. All I remember is that I told him to bring her down. Did not tell him to bring her by force if necessary. Don't know where or in what condition he found her. It was not my orders to bring her down regardless of how she was dressed. I did give orders to Officer Fitch to bring down Miss Minnie, and that both girls should be brought down, and their trunks and things in their room also.

Q.—You understood it to be your duty to send to the room of two young ladies, arrest them, rifle their room, and bring them both together whether the articles found in their room to the police station, without warrant or search warrant.

A. Yes, under the circumstances. Hattie was brought down by Mr. Brady under that order. Her trunks and Miss Minnie came afterward. Don't know whether the trunks or Minnie came first. I did not see the trunks when they came. Do not know what disposition was made of the trunks. Did not have the trunks examined before I had a conversation with Hattie. I did not know of any warrant being out. I do not know whether she knew she was a prisoner. I told her she must tell me more than she did in the morning. I did not tell her I had sent for Minnie. The trunks were not searched that evening, not until a day or two after. I and Fitch and Brady searched them. Think Minnie came at 11 o'clock. There was a common board partition between that room and mine, and a glass door. I was Chief four months. I did not hear the trunks brought in. Do not know whether Fitch told me when he brought the trunks or not. The case is not so common but that I can remember everything. Don't think I can remember all I said to her, or all she said to me. I had a theory. I thought it was Miss Hattie.

Q.—Did you have a theory of her guilt?

A.—Yes.

Q.—And you investigated on that theory?

A.—Yes. I had a conversation with Hattie before the trunks came, or before Fitch, Minnie or Jeffreys came. I was alone when I interviewed Hattie. Did not hear any one in the front office. I did not tell any of the officers that she had to tell me all. I did not say anything to her that I believed her innocent and if she would tell me what she knew I would let her go. I showed her the bits of clothing. I never saw the piece of jawbone. I had it in my possession, but never looked at it. I received the clothing on Sunday; the jawbone at a later time.

Court—Did she hesitate to make her statements to you?

A.—Not after I lead her.

C.—How did you lead her?

A.—By stating that I believed she knew more and that I wanted her to tell it to me. She wore a wrapper when she came in. She greeted me. I do not know how she greeted me. Her eyes were not inflamed with crying. I was in my room when she came. I did not order Brady to put her in my room till I got ready to see her. Brady retired. It is not a fact that Brady said "I have Hattie here," and Fitch had gone for Minnie and would bring her before long. She asked me what she was brought for. I can't give her exact language. I said to her: "Hattie, I know you were riding with Harlan the night of the murder. I know where you got the buggy, and I want you to tell me about it." She did not cry, but

SHE APPEARED BASHFUL.

My object in telling it to her was to get a confession. I did not believe she was guilty or had a guilty knowledge of the murder, but I suspected it. I did not suspect any one else at that time. I did not use any persuasion. I did not use all the skill I had to get a confession. I do not consider that I have had a large experience as a police expert. I consider myself only an amateur. My object in sending for her was merely to find out more of what she knew. I thought at the time Minnie might be in with her; that is the reason I sent for her.

Court—Did you lead her on, induce or urge her to make a confession?

A.—After I told her about the buggy, etc., she volunteered her statement. I told her I knew she was out with Harlan that night. I told her the best thing she could do was to tell me the whole truth about it. I was interested in having her tell me all about the whole business. I was ambitious to ferret out a mysterious crime. I did not urge her to tell. I told her I wanted to know. I might have said it would be better if she'd make a full disclosure. I did not tell her I knew she was guilty of killing Harlan robbery and that I would let her go if she would tell me about it. No such language, in substance or effect, happened as the scene described in the presence of Minnie. When Minnie came she was brought into the presence of her sister after I had finished my conversation with her, not immediately after she came into the station. When Fitch brought Minnie, he came to the door and said, "Minnie is here." I said, "hold on, I am not ready to see her yet." I finished my conversation. It was fifteen or twenty minutes before she was admitted. She was making a voluntary statement. At first I asked her some questions, and then she continued voluntarily. We had already been together over an hour. I may have asked her some questions, after Fitch announced the arrival of Minnie. I asked her some questions all along relative to her motive in doing this and that. She told me the whole story before she stopped and then I questioned her some, and she repeated her story again. I thought from what she said to me in the morning that it was important enough to take it down in writing. My motive in calling Brady, and having him write it down, was so that she could not deny it afterwards. I told her after the morning interview that I had no further use for her, and I let her go home. In the evening I did not think of calling a witness to take down in writing the confession she made. I was surprised when she confessed but not overwhelmed with excitement. I consider the statement made at night as more important than that given in the morning.

HER STATEMENT.

It did not occur to me until it was too late, to have her statement taken down in writing. She started off in her conversation before I expected it, and told it so easy that I thought she she would not besitate to tell it again to anybody. I Am not positive that I know City Editor Stevens of the Tribune. I did not tell him Hattie had made a confession to me. If I did tell that she had not made a confession, I lied to him, for I kept the confession away from the press altogether. I did not send Alford and Brady to try to see whether they could get contradictory stories from her. I told Jeffreys and Fitch to stay there all night with her. I left the two girls there together all night with the officers. I did not tell the officers to try to get a statement out of Hattie to see if it would corroborate the one made to me. I did not tell Minnie that Hattie made a confession. I am not positive that I ordered Minnie to be kept there that night in the presence of Hattie and to use her influence in making Hattie confess. I think I gave her permission to stay with her sister for company. It is false that I told Minnie that I would keep Hattie till doomsday if she did not confess. It was the night of the 12th of October that I took the girls in. It was a day after Sunday, but I cannot say that it was the day after Sunday. Minnie went and came as she pleased. I did not keep her. I thought she might have some of Harlan's things on her. That is why I sent for her. I did not have her searched then. I got the idea that she might have some of the things after I had talked with Hattie. She was brought in at about 11 o'clock. I do not know that I explained why I brought her in.

The court here interposed with the suggestion that the council for defendent was taking a great deal of unnecessary latitude in his examination. Counsel said that the evidence he was endeavoring to get at was vital. He menat to show that for three days, witness held defendent without authority or warrant, in endeavoring to force a confession, which he claimed was made on the first evening. He would prove by the witness' own statements that no confession was made. The court explained that the question was as to whether the alleged confession was admissible as evidence and if admitted the jury should decide whether the confession was true or bore with it any weight.

Continuing witness said: I did not scare a confession out of her. She was not scared nor did she show excitement. She did not ask me if she might go home. She did not say that if she had known she was to stay there she would have taken time to dress.

Re-direct examination: I was in the office that night when Hattie came in. No one else was in at the time. I think Brady came with her. Brady did not remain. He only came to the door.

The State closed with this witness at this point.

Mr. Brady was next called to testify for the defense, but as he could not be found and the hour was late, court was declared adjourned until 10 A. M. Monday, April 10. The adjournment was made a few minutes after 5 P. M.

Regal Establishment by the Sea.

Now that the boom has struck Santa Monica in good shape, and general improvements are the order of the day in every direction from this delightful seaside resort, H. C. Beville, one of the most popular and successful contractor and builder of this city, has built and fitted up one of the finest and best appointed livery establishments at Santa Monica to be found in Southern California. In the selection of his stock of carriage horses and roadsters, he has spared neither pains or expense to secure the best, as he has also done in procuring his carriages, buggies and all the detail to this regal establishment. His family teams and ladies riding horses, with the latest in the way of turnouts, are made a specialty, This magnificent establishment is situated in front of the Arcadia Hotel and within a few feet of the new passenger depot. Parties going down to have a drive on the beach, to the Soldiers' Home, over the Ballona, or up the Santa Monica Cañon, can step out of the train at the depot and into the office of the Beville Livery, where they can be supplied with an elegant outfit in a moment's notice, on the most reasonable terms. Particular attention will be given to private teams boarded at this place. The corps of attaches of these stables are careful and skillfull horsemen, who will leave nothing undone to make them the most popular stables in the State.

Now that hourly trains are to be put on from this city to Santa Monica, Mr. Beville has anticipated the wants of of the thousands of visitors by establishing this much needed improvement where it will be so convenient for people looking for the fresh ozone and the invigorating atmosphere of this charming seaside resort.

Much credit is due to Mr. Beville for his enterprise and forethought in providing the pleasure seekers and visitors with recherche accommodations that cannot be excelled by the best appointed livery in this city.

Sold to Embellish the Soldiers Home.

The parties who came to the front and guaranteed the $100,000 to the Soldiers' Home, thereby giving Los Angeles the credit and advantage of having secured the most noteworthy and valuable prize ever located on the Pacific coast, are now requesting by a circular the public spirited citizens of this community to assist them in their noble effort by purchasing an acre lot in Negley Villa, adjacent to the Home buildings, which they offer at a lower price than small town lots in obscure places are sold for, that have no improvements to justify the investment. As this money is to be used to improve and embelish the grounds of the Soldiers' Home, all adjacent property must thereby be benefited, and will, without doubt, enhance in price to ten times its present value as has been at Dayton, Ohio, and other places where soldiers' homes have been established. The managers of this home guarantee that this shall be superior to any in the United States, owing to the climate, soil and other natural advantages which this home has over other locations. As this is a deserving enterprise in which our entire community should be interested, we can recommend our public-spirited citizens to join hands and help the cause. We will publish a list of purchasers of Negley Villa acre lots, as this is no land boom or money-making proposition, the only object being to secure the home to Los Angeles county.

BOARD OF PUBLIC WORKS.

Recommendations to be Acted on To-Morrow.

The Board of Public Works met yesterday, and transacted the following business:

On petition of J. L. Mansfield and others to have W. W. Stowell appointed as a member of the commissioners to appraise the damage caused by the grading of Court House street, between Grand avenue and Flower street, recommended that Alfred Salano be appointed to act with Mr. Stowell on the commission.

The protest of J. C. Zahn and others, protesting against their assessment for piping Flower street, between Third and Fifth streets, recommended that the petition be filed, as the city will only pipe the street crossings.

On petition of Robert L. Garrett and S. C. Kenonick to have grade established on Bartlett street, from Montreal to Philadelphia streets, recommended that the petition be filed, as only two names are subscribed to the petition.

On petition of J. H. Anderson and E. H. Kincaid for privilege to put in a platform hay scale on west side of Pearl street, near Pico street, recommended that the petition be denied.

On petition of Francesca W. Shepherd to have grade established on First street, from Hill to Olive street, recommended that City Surveyor be instructed to establish grade as prayed for.

On petition of R. Verch and others to have grade established on Regent street, from Fifth to Sixth street, recommended that the City Surveyor be instructed to grade said street as prayed for.

On petition of Henry Clement and others to have the Superintendent of Streets place the north half of Bellevue avenue, between Castelar and Rosas streets, in as good condition as it was prior to the grading of the south half of Bellevue avenue, recommended that the petition be filed, as the contractor is obliged to put the street in as good condition as he found it.

On petition of Mrs. E. Rank to have the water removed from the corner of Spring and Fifth streets, recommended that the matter be referred to the Street Superintendent.

On petition of Thomas Copley to have the intersection of First and Hope streets graded, recommended that the matter be referred to the Street Superintendent.

On petition of H. B. Irey et al., to have grade established on Court street, from Beaudry avenue to Figueroa street, recommended that the City Attorney be instructed to draft a resolution of intention to grade said street as prayed for.

On petition of V. Gifford and others to have grade established on Ohio street, from Second street to Court street, recommended that the matter be referred to the City Surveyor to establish said grade, if it has not already been established.

On petition of Geo. R. Barton and others to have Adele street graded and curbed, under the Vrooman act, from Figueroa street to Nevada street, recommended that the City Attorney be instructed to draft a resolution of intention to grade said street as prayed for.

On petition of E. H. Bentley and others to have Nevada street graded and curbed under the Vrooman act, from Pico street to Rowland street, recommended that the City Attorney be instructed to draft a resolution of intention to grade said street under the Vrooman act as prayed for.

On petition of J. M. Witmer and others to have drains laid across Arnold street, west of Lucas avenue, to drain the stagnant ponds caused by the grading of Arnold street, recommended the matter be referred to the Street Superintendent.

On protest of Ponet & Ferguson protesting against the grade of Alvarado street, from Pico street to Eleventh street, recommended that the petition be placed on file, as insufficient names are attached to the petition.

On petition of F. Cobb and others to have cross walks laid at the following streets where they intersect First street: Pleasant, Bailey, State, Cummings, St. Louis, Chicago streets, recommended that the petition be placed on file.

On petition of Mrs. Matilda A. Blanchard, to have Beaudry street left ungraded from First street to Second street, recommended that petition be placed on file.

On petition of E. Backman, for further time on work to be done on Mission road, recommended that the prayer be granted.

On petition of John W. Reese, to have the Board investigate the broken pipes on Beaudry street, recommended that the matter be referred to the Street Superintendent.

Recommended that the City Attorney be instructed to draft a resolution of intention to grade Howe street, under the Vrooman act.

On petition of Alfred R. Street and others, to have the grade established on Lafayette street, from Ward street to Seminary street, recommended that the City Surveyor be instructed to grade said street.

In the matter of the protest of property owners against receiving the half street from H. R. Stephens, recommended that Mr. Stephens be instructed to put the opposite side of the street in as good a condition as before.

Recommended that the City Attorney be instructed to draft a resolution awarding the contract to Charles E. Crowley for the grading of Seventh street from Pearl street to Union avenue.

Recommended that the Street Superintendent be instructed to have the intersection of Sand street graded to conform with Castelar street.

In the matter of lowering the Daly street bridge, recommended that the bridge be lowered three feet.

On the petition of the Rapid Transit Company for a new franchise to construct a track in the city, the Board asks one week's time.

THE SUPERVISORS.

No Power to Appoint an Additional Justice.

The Board of Supervisors met yesterday morning. Present, a full Board.

On motion of Supervison Macy, a warrant of $10 was ordered drawn in favor of indigent J. Hazelip.

By request, the Tax Collector was granted a leave of absence for thirty days, between May first and July first.

Supervisor Martin moved that the office of Health Officer at San Pedro be discontinued after April 1, as that was a corporate city now, and should make its own provisions for such officers. Carried.

In the matter of the San Fernando cut, Supervisor Venable moved that a warrant of $250 be drawn in favor of Supervisor Martin to pay the employees. Carried.

In the matter of the Railroad avenue at Garvanza, a petition was presented from D. McCoal and Ralph Rogers, asking the Board to declare a portion of said avenue vacated, as it never was dedicated to the county, and is needed for railroad purposes. On motion of Supervisor Martin, the prayer of petitioners was granted.

In the matter of the appointment of an additional City Justice of the Peace, a written statement was received from Hon. Stephen M. White and S. R. Dupuy, to the effect that the Board had no power to appoint such an officer, as all provisions made in the Code are only for filling vacancies.

Board adjourned until Monday.

The Zanjas.

The Zanja Committee met yesterday in the Council Chamber and transacted the following business: On the petition of H. McLelland and others to pipe a branch of Zanja 8 R. between Nevada and Rowland streets, recommended that the same be denied, but that permission be granted to petitioners to pipe the same at their own expense.

On the petition of Bailey & Herbert to abandon a zanja ditch running through San Julian street, stated that the same is a private ditch and the Council has no power in the matter.

On the petiton of Wm. Ruddy and others, recommends that the same be referred to the Zanjero to investigate and report to the Zanja Committee at its next meeting.

Recommended that the bid of Lacy, Ward & Co., to excavate and lay a 30-inch iron pipe in Zanja 6-1, be accepted, and that the City Attorney be instructed to draft a contract for the same.

EXHIBITS.

The Board of Trade Will Make a Display.

The Board of Trade is very desirous of making its new quarters as attractive as possible for all the purposes for which it is organized, and as it has ample space for exhibits of all the products of the country, it wishes any product, such as grains of all kinds, fruits, wines, honey, wool, minerals, etc. These exhibits must be of permanent nature, that is, grains must be in bottles nicely labeled, fruits in jars, or if dried, in boxes that will preserve them, with glass covers; honey in glass jars, or put up in such a manner that it will keep; and wines, brandies, etc., nicely bottled and labeled. Samples of marble, granite, or any building stone, should be sent neatly cut in various ways; terra cotta, pottery, pressed brick, cement pipe, etc., should be of good quality, and also samples of crude and refined petroleum in glass jars; any samples of woods sent, should be nicely dressed. All these will be marked to show the place from whence they came, the person or persons from whom they were received, and the section of country they represent. With such a display the large room will be a very popular resort for the visitors.

Mrs. Ford's Death.

The death of Mrs. Emily D. Ford, wife of George O. Ford, formerly proprietor of the St. Elmo Hotel, after a short illness, was announced yesterday. Mrs. Ford was born in West Jefferson, Ohio, 32 years ago, and her first residence in this State was at Auburn. Later she came to Los Angeles, and has made many friends, who mourn her untimely departure.

The matter is now being prepared for this popular publication. The edition will be larger than ever before, and its columns will be filled with carefully prepared matter reflecting the progress and industry of Southern California. The illustrations will be more numerous than ever before, and in point of excellence the engraver's art will maintain the high reputation this publication has deservedly gained. Parties desirous of availing themselves of the advantages this special edition offers for advertising and write-ups, will do well to hand in their orders at as early a day as possible.

The Vote on Silver.

The vote on the Beck amendment to the Bond bill in the Senate last Wednesday was as follows:

Ayes.—Allison, Beck, Berry, Blackburn, Bowen, Brown, Butler, Call, Cameron, Cockrell, Coke, Colquitt, Cullom, Daniel, Davis, Faulkner, George, Gorman, Hampton, Ingalls, Jones of Arkansas; Jones of Nevada; Mitchell, Paddock, Palmer, Plumb, Pugh, Sabin, Saulsbury, Stanford, Stewart, Teller, Turpie, Vest, Voorhees, Walthall, Wilson of Iowa—37.

Noes.—Blair, Dawes, Farwell, Frye, Gray, Hawley, Hiscock, Hoar, McPherson, Platt, Sawyer, Sherman, Spooner—13.

Senators Harris, Morgan, Hearst, Pasco, Ransom and Reagan, who would have voted aye, were paired with Morrill, Evarts, Payne, Quay, Stockbridge and Edmunds, who would have voted no.

An analysis of this vote discloses the fact that of the thirty-seven Senators voting in favor of Mr. Beck's amendment, sixteen were Republicans and nineteen Democrats. Those paired were six Democrats to five Republicans and one Democrat; or, in other words, sixteen Republicans favored the amendment, and twenty-four Democrats did so. There were opposed to the measure sixteen Republicans and but three Democrats. There are thirty-two of the thirty-eight Republican Senators in this count, while there are only twenty-nine of thirty-seven Democratic Senators in the list. The six who do not appear are Hale, Manderson, Chandler, Dolph, Chace, and Aldrich, who either would have voted against the amendment, or dodged the issue; while the absentee Democrats, Eustis, Gibson, Wilson of Maryland, Vance, Bate and Kenna, would certainly have voted for it had they been present; and they would have taken care to be present had it not been pretty well known how the cat would jump. Blodgett may lean with his colleague, McPherson, to the Sherman side of the question, and he may not. There is no way of knowing. It is most significant that cold, callous and cunning old John Sherman, despite his protestations that he is a friend of silver, yet voted against the Beck amendment. John may shriek himself hoarse on this proposition, but the people know him, and they know him as a man always opposed to the interests of the people, and in favor of monopoly.

FOR the fall elections a new registration of voters in this county has been ordered by the Board of Supervisors. This means that all voters must register between this time and the first of next November, or lose their right to vote at the Presidential election. It is a well known fact that unusual efforts are quietly making on the part of our Republican fellow citizens, to enroll every voter of their political household in the county. The contest this fall will be the hottest, without exception, ever made in the Republic. The line of discussion will probably take rather a high plane. The Republican party will be forced to abandon, in part, at least, its "bloody-shirt" argument, and to enter the campaign on live issues. The adjustment of the tariff to the proper requirements of the Governmental expenses, and the rehabilitation of silver to a place on the full level with gold as a coin metal, will be the leading doctrines discussed. The Republican party is already on record as in favor of continuing the levy of unnecessary taxation, and as opposed to the replacement of silver as a co-ordinate coin metal with gold. The material interests of the highest intelligence of the people will be called to sit in judgment on those propositions. In addition to the efforts in this line, we may expect to see the moneyed powers of the Nation in solid phalanx, appeal to other means than those which reach men's reason, to carry the campaign in favor of the party which has fostered monopolies since its first appearance on the political stage. It is with Republicans a distinct case of now or never. The party must win this fall or sink out of sight, never to rise again. To combat all the powers arrayed against us we shall need every vote of every man in the country who is in favor of an economical administration of National affairs: who wishes to see taxation kept in due bounds; who wants to have silver remonetized and the price of farm produce and of labor enhanced by this means. We therefore say to those who favor reform in all its phases, to all who wish to see the interests of the people put before those of the few millionaires, to all friends of popular government and personal rights, do not fail to secure your franchise. See to it at once that your name is on the great register. Do not put it off until the last moment, but go to the Courthouse or to some deputy in your district, and register at once.

THE disagreement between the Emperor of Germany and Prince Bismarck has reached the stage of really serious complication. Were the relations of Bismarck and the Empress more cordial, an understanding might be reached, but, as they are at daggers' points on general principles, it may well be feared that disagreements will lead to further bitterness, until no one can foresee the end. The Chancellor is iron in his disposition, and will not easily yield—especially where he has so good ground to think he is right, and the matter in dispute is serious. The Empress is a woman, and credited with a good share of natural obstinacy. Besides, the question is one to which her family is somewhat committed as a matter of policy. Her mother, the Queen of England, is credited with having some personal views as to the necessity of reforming the world in the matter of royal marriages. She is said to disapprove strongly of making them a mere affair of cold convenience. The Empress and the Emperor in their young days were married, not as an affair of State. It was as purely a love match as the veriest rural idyl imaginable. The Princess Louise married the Marquis of Lorne against the wishes of all excepting her royal mother, who blessed with all the unction of a simple peasant the marriage of the Princess of the royal blood to one who was not of royal lineage at all. Then the Princess Beatrice made a love match with penniless Henry of Battenburg, the brother of this Alexander of Bulgaria. Thus it appears that love matches run in the royal family of England like wooden legs. Now if the Empress of Germany holds to such views as these, grave complications may be the result. And the Emperor is in no fit state to enter into any protracted and earnest contest with Prince Bismarck; yet he is very likely to gratify the desires of his wife and daughter.

OUR local columns contain an account of a pleasant little gathering of the local Democracy last night, the occasion being a welcome to our county representatives, who, by untiring efforts, skilfully directed, succeeded in securing the State Convention for our city. The most perfect harmony prevailed in all the sentiments uttered, and the uppermost thought in all minds was that the State delegates should have a right warm welcome to the Angelic City, and that every possible effort should be put forth to make their stay with us one of unmingled pleasure. There is no doubt of the ability of this city to accommodate in a princely fashion all who come; and there is as as little that the city in its press, in its people, in its officials, hotels and all other elements will vie each with the other to bring about a result so desirable to us as a people. Nor will narrow party lines be allowed to guide the policy of our people in this affair. Regardless of party affiliation, of nationality or other lines of demarkation, all will feel that the visitors are guests of our fair city, that her good name for hospitality and generous instincts is at stake and must be redeemed. From all parts of the State the delegates must be made to feel at home, and each of them must be sent back hymning the praises of Los Angeles and her people.

HERE are two points which perfectly illustrate the growing importance of Los Angeles. Mr. Towne, of the Southern Pacific Company, has stated that during the last half of 1887 the road he represents hauled to Los Angeles 52,800 tons more freight than to San Francisco in the same period. In reaching the full significance of this fact we must remember that the Southern Pacific hauls but a moiety of the freight coming here. The Farmers and Merchants bank of Los Angeles holds $200,000 more assets than the leading banking house of San Francisco. Here are two facts which mean volumes.

THE HERALD this morning contains an article from our correspondent in Mexico—this one from the famous city of Xalapa—which will well repay perusal. It is full of suggestive facts concerning that portion of the Sister Republic.

FOR the week ending last night, the first one in the month of April, real estate sales aggregated $1,518,253; and were 683 in number. For the last week in March the sales were of the value of $1,432,799, and 825 in number. The rate is about $6,578,662 per month. While such figures as these are reached, the "boom" would seem to be in as healthy a condition as could be desired.

REPUBLICAN papers are jubilant over the fact that Rhode Island has been saved to their party. It takes little to excite enthusiasm in the breasts of the G. O. P. in the present day of grace. It is said that all things are possible to him who can wait. The Democracy can wait, and in due time our day of rejoicing will come—when Texas rolls up her majority.

TAX-PAYERS will do well to send to the city and to the county assessor at their earliest possible convenience a full and accurate description of their property. Each piece must be described separately, according to the tract, block and lot, or section, range and township, if it is in the country. By complying with these directions much trouble and loss will be avoided.

THE shipment of oranges to the East from this section is now in full blast. The campaign, when all the killed and wounded are counted will run up to about fifteen hundred cars A carload is three hundred boxes; and therefore the crop will come to 450,000 boxes. At $2 per box this will be $900,000 for the crop.

RHODE ISLAND Republicans have driven the last nail in their political coffin. A constitutional amendment was passed in that State, which admits 5000 non-property owners to vote. When all the people are enfranchised the majority is always on the side of the people's party—the Democracy. "Little Rhody" will be ours ifereafter.

THE VILLA OF PALMS.

Interesting Reminiscences of a Florentine Palace.

[Translation of an article in Le Progres.]

Queen Victoria will occupy the Villa Palmieri (Villa of Palms) during her present sojourn in Florence.

The Villa Palmieri is a palace built twenty years ago by Lord Crawford, an Englishman, upon one of the heights which slope to the right bank of the Arno, a short distance from the Caccine, the favorite promenade of the Florentins. There is nothing remarkable in its construction; it is very spacious, very comfortable; but its owner had the taste and the good sense not to copy any of the numerous models which make Florence a very jewel of showy architecture. He was satisfied to embellish his residence with magnificent gardens and terraces, which enabled him to enjoy from all sides a wonderful panorama, delightfully accented by the beautiful skies of Italy, which give so soft and poetic a tint to everything they touch.

How the time flies! It is now fifteen years agone that I had the honor of being the guest at Florence of Lord and Lady Crawford. He, long since, died in that same palace, and his body, taken back to England, was stolen from its tomb. Vainly were the most sagacious detectives sent out to recover it; vainly did Lord Lindsay, the son of the deceased, offer a reward of 5000 francs to trace the robbers. The search and the reward were without result, and the tomb will remain forever empty—a sad memorial of a most incomprehensible sacrilege.

The honors of the Villa are now extended to the English Queen by Lord and Lady Lindsay and by the latter's sister, the Princesse de Theano, the most charming patricienne of the City of Rome. The Queen, surrounded by the daughters of Lady Crawford, celebrated for their grace and beauty, will pass, in this residence, truly regal, days of delight, the remembrance of which will not even be effaced by the splendors of Windsor, or the attractions of Osborne. It was at the suggestion of the opulent Baroness Coutts, a friend of the Queen and the aunt of Lord Lindsay, that the Villa Palmieri has the signal honor to become the temporary place of retreat of Victoria, Queen of England and Empress of India. She may well exclaim with Racine's "Clytemnestra:"

"Sans quel palais superbe et plein de ma grandeur Puis-je jamais paraitre avec plus de splendeur!"*

Fifteen years! And yet it seems but yesterday, so much have I lived there in memory, happy in that family life of which one may dream in other countries, but which is only realized in England. Florence was not, at that period, the capital of Italy, but in fact its substance was there, for although the court was at Rome, with the Chambers and the Ministry, Florence still conserved, within that border which encloses historical monuments nowhere else to be found, the aristocracy of Italy as well as the cream of the select of other countries.

King Victor Emmanuel was often there; the Countess of Mirafiore, morganatic queen, there had her palace; Grand Duchess Marie, sister of the Emperor Nicholas, there held her state. Paul Demidoff, Prince of San Donato, gave marvelous fêtes at his palace there—fêtes at which one could number as many quarterings of the noblesse as at the ancient court of France. Alas! fifteen years have hardly elapsed, and yet all whom I have cited have long since passed down the dark river. These are the bitter sweets of all our lives, and I may say, with Molière, of the pleasures of those days and of the clouds which followed, that—

"Ce m'est quelque plaisir parmi tant de tristesse."†

Queen Victoria, however, will not revive the stir and elegancies of the past. She is there to find quiet and retirement. The Colli and the Caccine will be her favorite promenades. It is hoped that this repose will re-establish her health, greatly shattered—so much so, indeed, that it is a serious question in English court circles of calling the Prince of Wales to the Regency. May it be that she will there recover her health! May she also take with her from the Villa Palmieri such memories as I have kept—memories too dear and too indelible to be ever effaced. BELA.

Los Angeles, March 29, 1888.

* I know no palace where the glories of my reign
Could brighter shine or fairer hues attain.

APRIL FLOWERS.

A Spring Days' Ride Through the San Gabriel Valley.

Yesterday a HERALD reporter accompanied a little party of gentlemen in a quiet ride through the San Gabriel Valley. A start was made at a little after nine o'clock, and as a good team had been provided, excellent time was made from the beginning. The roads are in excellent condition all over the county; the grass on the hills and plains is knee-high; barley and wheat are almost ready to head out; the vineyards are just putting out their new foliage; the oranges are yellow as gold, and the blossoms for next year's crop are just coming out, so are the blossoms on the olive trees. At the eastern limits of the city it was observed that some progress is being made in converting the triangular piece of land owned by the city from an unsightly waste to a pretty park. Speed the plow in this good work! It is a needed improvement. At Aurant, the Southern Pacific Company is putting in a big lot of additional sidetrack to accommodate the ever-increasing business of the road.

Reaching Romona, it is seen that the Rapid Transit Railroad people are pushing their enterprise with all possible dispatch. A train was there loading iron to take to the point where track-laying is being done.

Mrs. Boone's new house at Romona is nearly finished. It is near the eastern edge of the town site, on the block adjoining that recently selected by the Romona press colony. To the north of the Southern Pacific track, a great gang of men are busy putting the vineyards of the San Gabriel Wine Company in order. The same busy efforts are to be noted in all parts of the valley.

At the Alhambra a great many substantial improvements arrest the eye on all sides. This place is growing rapidly into one of ideal beauty. The Southern Pacific depot at this point is a very pretty structure, and here also a gang of workmen was engaged in preparing to lay side tracks. Beyond Alhambra the picturesque old Mission San Gabriel is passed, with its church 100 years old.

Then East San Gabriel is reached, where a pretty new depot has been built on the old Gibbs place, where the road north and south crosses the railroad near the Gibbs house. To the left is the new hotel, just built by the enterprise of Mr. L. W. Dennis, Mr. John P. Sanborn and their business associates. This is on the Clapp, Wilson or Wicks place—for the property has been owned by all of these parties. The site is one of the most perfect in Los Angeles county. The ground lies high; the new house is surrounded by fine old oaks, and also by a very good orchard of deciduous and citrus fruit. The view of the great mountains from this point is unsurpassed. Not only the range stretching from above Pasadena, past Monrovia, and eastward for 100 miles is in full view; but the trine Titanic peaks all capped with snow, San Antonia, San Bernardino and San Jacinto, are seen, perhaps to better advantage than from almost any other point in the country.

The grounds around the hotel are being laid out in fine style. The company has an abundance of the purest, coldest water from an artesian well at 250 feet higher elevation on the Titus ranch, some two miles further up the mesa. In front of the hotel runs a broad avenue. To the south it runs past the Old Mission, and thence to the Puente hills; to the north it passes the far-famed Sunny Slope and Lamanda Park, and thus reaches the mountains. This section of country surpasses everything for pleasant drives and interesting points to visit.

The hotel contains 125 rooms. The edifice is one of the most picturesque in this section, and everything about it is calculated with a view to the comfort of its guests. Ample halls reach through it in all directions; wide verandas encircle it on two floors; graceful towers crown it and give a view unsurpassed in the land; it has rooms single and en suite; bath rooms private and public; parlors, reading rooms, places for amusement, fine dining rooms, and, in fact, it is a perfect rural hotel with all the elegances of the best house in the city. The men of the Los Angeles Furniture Company are now busy at work laying down as fine a line of body brussels carpets as can be found. The house is to be furnished in an excellent style in all respects. It will be opened about the 1st of June, Mr. J. J. Martin, who has won such marked distinction for the manner in which he conducted the Palmyra Hotel at Orange, being secured to manage the new hostelry.

Having inspected the new hotel the party sped on beneath double lines of lordly eucalyptus trees which align the big avenue, until the old Foord and Titus ranches were reached. Here a halt was made and lunch enjoyed under spreading oaks a century old. The day was perfect, the skies clear, the air balmy, the fields aglow with the hues of a thousand varieties of flowers. The water from a liberal artesian well flowed softly into a big basin under the trees, and thence ran off into a miniature lake beneath a grove of great oaks. Here is the northern limit of the lands of the great San Gabriel Land and Water Company. The whole contains 1100 acres of the finest soil, most charmingly situated, with abundance of pure artesian water, and under the most genial skies in the world.

After lunch the return trip was made via the Shorb, Dobbins and Fargo places, the north side of the Alhambra and East Los Angeles. All the way the fields are literally decked with flowers, and look as charming as any landscape the eye ever rested on.

The party reached home at a little after 3 o'clock, and voted the picnic as pleasant as any they ever were at.

Associated Charities.

A public meeting under the auspices of the above organization will be held on Tuesday evening, April 10th, in the First Presbyterian Church, corner of Fort and Second streets. Mayor Workman will preside. The meeting will be addressed by Hon. Stephen M. White, Lieutenant-Governor; Rev. Drs. Chichester, Cantine, Fay, Hutchings, Birdsall and Schreiber. The music will be of a high order as the following well-known artists have kindly consented to take part: Mrs. Mamie Perry-Davis, Miss Florence Perry, Mrs. Beeson and Book, Mrs. Scarboro, Mrs. Valentine, Mr. Wilde and Mr. Hawthorne.

An Honest Policy.

The Los Angeles HERALD has just entered upon the fifteenth year of its existence. As a daily paper the HERALD has always been distinguished by an honest policy, impartially and wisely directed. It is now, as in the past, the first of the organs of public opinion, and of accepted authority, in Southern California.—[Le Progres.

Alhambra and San Gabriel.

EDITORS HERALD: The Alhambra brickyard has at last got underway, and promises soon to supply the demand for good bricks.

The San Gabriel Valley Rapid Transit Railroad track is being laid through J. DeBarth Shorb's vineyard.

The streets are beginning to show the need of the water cart. It is to be hoped that Garfield avenue will be sprinkled before long.

The fair was a success, which is amply demonstrated by the showing of $1200 net proceeds.

The dance given by Mr. Rhodes at Pomeroy & Stimson's Hall was well attended; about fifty couple were present. M.

THE RECEPTION

To Mr. Sidney Lacey and Capt. A. W. Barrett.

A GATHERING OF CITIZENS

At the Hotel Oxford in Honor of the Occasion—Toasts and Responses.

The Hotel Oxford opened wide its doors yesterday evening at 8:30 o'clock to the committee of citizens, irrespective of party, who met there to tender to Mr. Sidney Lacey and Capt. A. W. Barrett a reception and banquet in appreciation of their successful efforts to locate the Democratic State Convention of '88 at Los Angeles. About forty representative citizens were present, and the warmth and enthusiasm of the occasion fully demonstrated to the gentlemen in whose honor the reception was held that the people of Los Angeles duly appreciated the efforts which located the great annual gathering of the State Democracy in this city.

Mine host, W. W. Stevenson, of the popular Oxford Hotel, had spared no pains to set a table which would do honor to the occasion, and he did this all as a contribution to the cause. An orchestra, composed of members of the Seventh Regiment band and other musicians, discoursed sweet music during the evening.

Shortly after 9 o'clock the gentlemen surrounded the festal Board, and Major W. R. Burke, acting as chief of ceremonies, announced in a short speech the object of the occasion, which was, as before stated, for the purpose of expressing to Mr. Lacey and Captain Barrett the appreciation and gratefulness of the citizens of this city and county, to the gentlemen in question for their efficient services in procuring the convention for Los Angeles. He concluded his remarks with the necessary advice that all present join in doing the proper thing to the viands spread before them. There was no hesitation in complying with the suggestion.

Presently Mr. Sidney Lacey arose and said that before proceeding further with the ceremonies, he desired with all due respect to the gentlemen who got up the "lay out," to make a few remarks, which were to the effect that the State Central Committee had done well by Los Angeles, and conferred upon the people here an honor which he trusted all would properly appreciate. He said "we want to treat the delegates to the convention right when they come here. There was much complaint about the manner in which the Republican State Convention of two years ago had been treated here. The report had gone out through the northern part of the State that Los Angeles was inhospitable, and that it was a poor place for the accommodation of conventions. This feeling had made it difficult to work up a sentiment in favor of locating the convention in this part of the State. We must render the best of treatment to all that come especially to the representatives of Santa Clara and San Francisco counties, whose committeemen gave us every vote. [Applause.] We must treat nicely all who come, and send them back with good opinions. We must show them we have a country of boundless resources here, and that we know how to treat our guests." Changing the tenor of his remarks, he said that work had been going on to secure the convention for Los Angeles that most of the gentlemen present knew little of. Major Moran and others had done a great deal of work to accomplish these ends, and as for himself, he would claim very little credit. He appreciated what had been said and what had been done in behalf of himself and his colleagues, although he would attribute little of the honor to himself, as it was not due him. It was, however, clear by the shouts and the side remarks at the conclusion of Mr. Lacey's speech, that the assembly considered him in very great part responsible for the winning of the convention.

The first toast of the evening was "The President of the United States," responded to by Captain D. R. Risley. The Captain said: "Nobody wants to hear a speech from me. I am no speechmaker, but I can say a few words for this cause. The record of a Democratic President is before the country and it needs no apology. His name is Grover Cleveland. I have a dispatch from St. Louis which tells me his name will head the next ticket and Mr. Gray, of Indiana, will be his second." The toast was drunk standing amid great applause.

Maj. J. Downey Harvey arose at the lower end of the table and presented a minority report. He said he and the rest of his end of the table wanted Stephen M. White, of Los Angeles, for the Vice-Presidency.

This sally was received with much hilariousness, and Lieut.-Governor White's health was proposed. Mr. White also responded to the next toast, "The Democratic State Convention of '88—may it bear good fruit." He said with reference to the convention that as it was the first time it was to meet in Los Angeles or Southern California, it must afford the members of the party in this section great delight, gratification and pleasure. He referred to our accommodations and facilities for entertaining such a body as this, and said he believed all the people and all the journals, irrespective of party, would help to make the visitors feel at home. He believed that the victory with the State Central Committee was accomplished by Mr. Lacey, with Captain Barrett, Major Moran and others as able auxiliaries. It must be remembered though that the work did not end with obtaining the convention. There are other battles to be fought. He complimented the efficiency of Mr. I. W. Hellman as chairman of the County Central committee, and Mayor Burke as chairman of the City Central Committee, and believed as far as they were concerned they would leave nothing undone to make the convention a success and to gain a great victory in the coming campaign. He called attention to the necessity of proper registration and urged that there would be no neglect in this. He thought even the Republicans present would soon come into the Democratic ranks. At this there was much laughter at the expense of Coroner Meredith, who was the most prominent member of the Republican party present, and who claimed that in the absence of the High Sheriff, under the laws of California, he was his representative, and therefore, for the night, nearly equivalent to a Democrat.

The fourth toast, "The City of Los Angeles, the Queen of the Angeles," was responded to by Captain A. W. Barrett, who said: "We have one of the most prosperous and progressive cities of the State." He had laid great stress on the size and importance of our city while before the State Central Committee, and had told told them that "in ten years we would exceed in size and importance the city of San Francisco itself," and extravagant as this statement seemed, he nevertheless firmly believed that in ten years it would have a population of 200,000, and have better improvements than any other city on the coast.

At the conclusion of his address, Marshal Risley arose and gave some statistics in regard to the railroad traffic and banking interests of Los Angeles, as compared with San Francisco. He showed that the Southern Pacific, in the second half of the year 1887, delivered 52,800 tons of freight more to Los Angeles than to San Francisco, and the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe, which delivers no freight at San Francisco, adds a great deal more to the surplus Los Angeles receives. The Farmers' and Merchants' Bank of this city has $200,000 more deposited in its vaults than the California State Bank, the leading banking institution of the metropolis.

Senator Del Valle was asked to respond to the toast. "The Native Sons of the Golden West." He stated that the Democratic party was not an old chestnut, but the subject of the toast assigned him had become to him an old chestnut, from the fact that on every occasion when speeches were wont to be made, he was called upon to speak on the "Sons of the Golden West." He supposed the chairman had signaled him out as the victim of a joke, but he would decline to speak on that subject at all. He would speak on the animus of the present occasion, which he did and made a most eloquent speech. He said the Democratic party was always ready to give credit where it was due, therefore it was fitting to honor Mr. Lacey and his colleagues. He dwelt particularly on the efforts which Mr. Lacey had exerted in the last six or eight years in endeavoring to secure the convention for Los Angeles. He also complimented Chairman Hellman, and concluded with mentioning the importance of showing proper hospitality to the expected guests. He showed the good and evil that might result from the convention, and thought it would prove a great source of knowledge to those who came from the northern part of the State, who would thus be accorded an opportunity to view the resources and prosperity of Los Angeles.

The next toast was the "Democrats of Los Angeles," by a Democrat, a "blast from whose bugle is worth a thousand men." The respondent was I. W. Hellman, who said: "You all know that I am no speaker, but to speak of the Democratic party always makes my heart jump with joy. The party is never defeated in this country when working unitedly. What success we have had was not through my efforts. I could have done nothing without the support of all the Democrats. Others did more work than I. Whatever I did was simply my duty. There is no such word as fail when we all work together. I hope my successor will be a man of more executive ability and vim. I will aid him all in my power."

Senator Munday responded to the toast, "The Bar." He confessed coming from the northern citrus belt, and still pleaded guilty to the impeachment of having a warm spot in his heart for his native heath. But he was in full accord with the doctrine of State unity, and believed the Democracy of the whole State should work together and abolish sectionalism. He came here because this is a prosperous section and a good place to make money. He hoped the greatest cordiality would always exist between the various sections. There should not, and there must not be any sectional feeling. As to the bar, he was mixed as to which he was speaking for, but that was immaterial.

Colonel J. J. Ayers responded to the toast "The Democratic Press of Southern California." He said: "In responding to any toast to the press I always feel en capâpe. But in responding to the Democratic press I feel a responsibility that does not suggest itself to every one." He referred them to the first victory of this section of the State in winning the convention, and the work of love and labor, which now remained for every one who loves this section and city, to do. He said we must not send the people away this year disgruntled, angry and inimicable to our place as was the result at the close of the Republican State Convention two years ago. Let us bring them here with words of cheer and the hospitality which belongs to Southern California and send them away sounding our praises. But the people would do that. He passed then from mere local to broader ground, the grand theater of statesmanship looked upon by the whole world, in which we were playing a part which would affect not only the present year but would reach far into the future. He spoke of the broad principles of government on which the Democratic party was founded—the correct principles of American government, the maintenance of which must not be a fight of words but of intelligence. He referred to some of the corruptions of the opposition party while in power, as for example, the lavish giving of the public lands of the United States to corporations—giving them into the hands of the few while the many have gone begging for homes without gaining them. The public domain, bought for the people by the people, where is it now? We have, as far as we could during our short time in power, handed back the lands of the government to their pristine ownership. The fight now is between the laboring West and the money-acquiring East, or, as John P. Irish expresses it, the "long-legged cow browses in the West to be milked in the East." The Democratic press will assist the party with all the power that this machine gives.

At about this time Colonel Ayers was interrupted in his speech by some of the youthful guests, who were growing convivial, and in the utmost good humor he turned and addressed them in a strain that has seldom been equalled in eloquence, wit or rhetoric. He improvised, on the moment, passage after passage of blank verse, so perfect in rythm and salient in point that many thought he was quoting Shakespeare, until the local points he was making elucidated his purpose. His closing remarks quite brought down the house.

Dr. J. H. Bryan, of St. Paul, responded to a toast on the new Democratic arrivals from other States. Chief of Police Cuddy responded to a toast on the improved condition of the Los Angeles police force. He guaranteed full protection to every one who would attend the convention. There were other toasts and responses by Carlos Crus (in Spanish) and others. The meeting broke up shortly after 11 o'clock, all avowing that it was the most complete and enjoyable affair of the kind ever held in this county.

Among those present were the gentlemen mentioned above and Messrs. W. R. McIntosh, George W. Burton, W. S. Waters, John T. Gaffey, E. Germain, Sam Hamilton, Esq., Col. Sloss, of the State Board of Equalization; Judge Eaton, of Pasadena; John F. Forster, J. M. Meredith, Ed. Baer, Chas. L. Northcraft, A. J. King, Esq., Gen. John M. Baldwin, representatives of the press, and others.

THE FLOWER FESTIVAL.

Details of the Arrangements—Disposition of the Proceeds.

The ladies of the Flower Festival and Orphans' Home Societies held a meeting at the Woman's Home, Wednesday afternoon, to further complete arrangements for the Flower Festival which is to open Tuesday, April 17th, and remain in progress until Saturday night, April 28th. About fifty earnest lady workers were present, and the meeting was called to order by the President, Mrs. R. M. Widney, at 2 o'clock.

After stating the object of the meeting, Mrs. Widney said that she considered the prospects for a successful festival much brighter than they had been for any of the three previous annual occurrences of this kind. Last year, notwithstanding the fact that the small-pox scare was all over town and there was a general impression that the festival was being held too early in the season for the flowers, $7500 was netted, and she felt confident that with everything in their favor this year, the proceeds would not fall short of $10,000; in fact, she expected them to exceed rather than fall below that amount. In regard to the disposition of the proceeds of the festival, Mrs. Widney explained, during the progress of the meeting, that it was proposed to apply the greater part of the net profits to the Orphan's Home fund. Last year the entire income of the festival was expended on the Woman's Homes Some indebtedness still remained on this institution and after this was cancelled, all the remaining proceeds would be devoted to the Orphan's Home, and this meant the bulk of the receipts from the festival. The impression had gone abroad that the Orphan's Home would receive the sole benefit from the festival, but she would prefer to have the public understand from the start that such is not the case. She hoped, however, there would be a very large balance for the Orphan's Home institution. The two societies, the Flower Festival and Orphan's Home, had united in the holding of this festival and there was a tacit understanding between them that the indebtedness on the Woman's Home should first be cancelled, and after that all the rest should be applied on the Orphan's Home.

The business of the meeting included the adoption of a schedule of rates and other arrangements. The price of a single admission was fixed at 25 cents; season tickets, good for fifteen admissions, $1.50. These tickets will be on sale at the Pavilion box office, only on Monday and Tuesday, April 16 and 17. All workers who purchase season tickets will be given a badge to be worn during the two weeks of the festival. No complimentary tickets will be issued except to the press.

Quite a little discussion occurred on the adoption of a badge. The question was as to whether there should be two sets, the one labled, "Flower Mission," the other "Orphans' Home," or whether it should be a union badge, labeled "Flower Mission and Orphans' Home." The union badge was finally adopted without a dissenting vote.

It was decided that this year, as last, no soliciting of any kind would be allowed at the festival. Persons who attended were to be left free to purchase what they pleased, and no man, woman or child would be permitted to make persuasal solicitations for the purchase of flowers, edibles or wares of any description. The society attributes much of its former success to this rule. An endeavor will be made to relieve attendants of embarrassments of every nature and make a visit to the festival as pleasant as possible. The prices of refreshments were fixed as follows: Icecream and cake, 25 cents; soda, lemonade and milk shake, 10 cents each. The dining room will be in charge of Mrs. C. W. Blaisdell, and arrangements for feeding 500 people per diem will be made. At the cloak and parcel room 10 cents will be charged each person making deposits. The number of articles deposited is not limited, but indulgence is asked in this respect. The price of registering will be five cents per name and twenty-five cents for the privilege of heading a new page. The city has been divided into twenty districts, for each of which a lady is appointed to collect donations of flowers. This is very hard and disagreeable work, and it is difficult to find ladies with the nerve to undertake it. Takers have, however, been secured for eighteen of the twenty districts, and Mrs. Widney expects in a few days to have the list completed. Blanks have been printed to aid the ladies who have charge of these departments. The outside towns that have thus far signified their intention of participating in the festival are Long Beach, Alhambra, Anaheim, Santa Monica, San Fernando and Tacoma, all of which will will contest for original designs and best kept booths. Mr. Lyon, the florist. Mrs. Chaffee and Miss McClure, of this city, will contest for original designs.

There will be a greater amount and variety of attractive costumes and fancy dressing this year than ever before. The floral display promises to exceed all former efforts and the profusion and georgeousness of the display will overwhelm with wonder and admiration the persons who have never before attended a flower carnival. All persons who have cypress or fan or straight palms, for the use of the society, will please notify Mrs. Widney, at 310 South Olive street, or at the proper time send them to the Pavilion where they will be gratefully received. Active work at the Pavilion will commence next Wednesday morning. A full programme of arrangements will be published in due time.

RAIL AND TIE.

An "Air Line" to be Built to Santa Monica.

THE NEW ROAD TO HUENEME.

Trouble About the Sale of the Garvanzo Motor Line—Depot Gossip.

The fact that an "Air-line Railroad" between this city and Santa Monica via The Palms will be built, has been for some time past a matter of much interest, and the HERALD is now able to give the exact route that will be followed. Starting at a point in the western line of Los Angeles City and Ninth street, the line will ran south along the boundry of Ballerino tract to Eleventh street; thence west along on line with Eleventh street through Ballerino tract, crossing Vermont avenue (extension) to B street of the Electric Railway Homestead Association Tract; thence south along B street to Twelfth street; thence along Twelfth street to J street of the same tract; thence south on J street, crossing Pico street; thence to Bartlett avenue of the Schumacher tract; thence south along Bartlett avenue to Berkeley avenue of the same tract; thence west along Berkeley avenue, crossing Gertrude avenue into Cambridge avenue of the Washington and Pico Heights property or tract; thence west along Cambridge avenue to Western avenue; thence south along Western avenue to a county road between Dimmick and Burke tracts; thence along said county road to Freeman street (of Mondonville); thence along Freeman street to Garfield street, of Arlington Heights; thence along Garfield street to the end of said street; thence in a southwesterly direction, through the lands belonging to F. H. Dimmick, R. Tibbett, Sentous Bros., Z. J. Swaygart, J. P. McCarthy, Jose de Arnaz, et al.; crossing Washington street near Sentous' slaughter pen, to the north line of Sentous' property; thence along the north line of Sentous' property to a county road near the residence of Jose de Arnaz; thence south along said road to a point at the corner of Arnaz's property; thence west along said county road to another county road at the corner of Sentous and Cabot tracts, crossing the Southern Pacific Railroad, bearing a little to the westerly into Villa street, of the "Palms;" thence southwesterly along Villa street, bearing a little to the east, crossing the county road at or near the foothills; thence bearing southerly around said foothills to Rose and Charnock tracts; thence in a southerly direction through the lands of Machado, Del Valle, Charnock and R. A. Crippen, entering East Santa Monica at Central avenue, thence along Central avenue to Sheridan avenue; thence west along Sheridan avenue to the county road on the west line of East Santa Monica; thence turning south along said road to Eighth street extension or (county road) to the Santa Monica line.

The road will amalgamate with the one for which R. A. Crippin and others are endeavoring to obtain a right of way through Santa Monica. The route through that town asked for is from the south limit of the town along Eighth street to Utah avenue, and thence along Utah avenue to Ocean avenue. Objections have been made by certain property owners on account of the road being operated by steam, and if entrance to the town by the above route is refused, the following will be probably adopted: Along Eighth street to Pennsylvania avenue to the extension of Fourth street, thence along Fourth street to Front street, and along Front street to the intersection of Ocean avenue. Here connection would be made with Vawter's horse-car line, which has a franchise for steam, and the cars could therefore run to a central point in front of the Hotel Arcadia

A meeting of the promoters of the road was held yesterday afternoon in this city, for the purpose of organizing and drawing up the incorporation papers, but adjournment was taken without action until Monday. With the exception of one or two points all of the right-of-way has been secured, and the project will be pushed through at once. The cars will be propelled by motor power, and will leave each end every two hours at least. The organizers in this city are Messrs. E. Germain, H. L. Nash, F. M. Keach and A. J. Haley.

THE GARVANZO ROAD.

It is to be Continued to Pasadena—A Lawsuit Probable.

The transfer of the Garvanzo motor road by Mr. Ralph Rodgers to Los Angeles speculators has already been noted, but it is not generally known that a grievance has arisen over the affair. Mr. Rodgers entered into contracts to convey the line to H. T. McCrabbe & Co. of this city, but on placing their deed on record they found that a prior claim had been entered to Cole & Washburn. As, however, they hold indisputable evidence of their rights to the property, the matter is certain to be decided very shortly. The new owners of the property have decided to enhance its value by continuing it to its original objective point at the Raymond Hotel. It will be remembered that the line at present, after leaving Garvanzo branches out into the Eagle Rock valley for a distance of four or five miles. This section of the road will be maintained under the new regime, and the two and a quarter fraction miles separating Garvanzo from Pasadena will be built over, and the through line operated between the Raymond and this city. As this will be by far the shortest line between those two points, it will afford a means of rapid transit of incalculable value.

THE MINERAL BELT ROAD.

A Line of Great Interest to the Santa Fe People.

It is stated on good authority that work will shortly be commenced on the Mineral Belt Railway in Arizona. This road, which is to be operated between Flagstaff and Globe City, a distance of about 240 miles, is of great importance commercially. It traverses one of the richest sections of Arizona, passing through a magnificently timbered district and tapping rich mineral regions. But apart from this it has another important feature. The Sonora Railway from Benson to Guaymas is the property of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe road. To reach this line the company is now compelled to run its cars over the Southern Pacific's track from Deming to Benson. The Mineral Belt road will have its Southern terminal within a few miles of Benson, and as its northern terminal is at Flagstaff on the Atlantic and Pacific, which is the Santa Fe's main line, it will be seen that by purchasing the Mineral Belt road and extending it to Benson the Santa Fe will be independent of the Southern Pacific. As the Sonora Railway promises in the future to be a great commercial feeder the importance of this project can be realized.

A Line to Hueneme.

There are prospects that those interested in the proposed line between Hueneme to this city will shortly comence operations tending to its formation. The proposed route will pass through the most attractive and extensive agricultural regions of Southern California. Leaving Los Angeles the track will cross the San Fernando valley, thence via the Santa Susanna pass through the valleys of Simi and Las Posas and the principal portion of the valley of the Santa Clara river in Ventura County. The Simi ranch offers to subsidize the line with $100,000, and the other districts mentioned also give very tempting offers to the enterprise. Hueneme, the western terminus, is a port of delivery established by Act of Congress and its roadbed is lighted by Point Hueneme Lighthouse. The road can, it is said, be built very cheaply as the maximum grade is about 65 feet to the mile, and no tunnels will be necessary.

The Fairview Branch.

Those interested in the Santa Ana and Fairview road are pushing its construction with all the speed possible. The grading is done four miles out from Santa Ana and two miles from Fairview, leaving only a gap of two miles and the bridging to be yet attended to. The ties are being distributed, and the rails are expected in a few days. It is anticipated that the road will be in running order in thirty days from date.

Will Come to this City.

The San Bernardino Index says that a narrow gauge road from that city to Bear Valley has been decided on. Its present terminal point will be San Bernardino, though it will probably be pushed on to Los Angeles. The road as at present mapped out will be about forty miles in length, and will run through a richly timbered district, thus being of great benefit to the lumber trade.

The Elsinore Road.

It is expected that the grading between South Riverside and Elsinore will be finished in about three weeks and the laborers will then be transferred to the division between San Diego and Elsinore. The route by which this road will connect with the Southern Pacific at Pomona is not yet decided and speculation is rife as to its probable course.

A New Line.

The Long Beach and San Pedro Railway Company filed articles of incorporation yesterday for the purpose of building a railway from Long Beach to San Pedro Harbor, a distance of five miles. The following are the names of the directors: J. M. Leach, Harvey L. Bissell, E. Bouton, James Campbell and John W. Green. The capital stock is $100,000.

General Gleanings.

Those injured in the San Fernando disaster are all doing well.

"Lots of work, but no news," was the order of things at the Southern Pacific ticket office yesterday.

The Burlington excursion, which will leave on the 12th inst., will go via Salt Lake and Denver, and not over the "Sunset" line.

A standard gauge road is proposed from Nordhoff, Ventura county, to Santa Barbara, passing through Carpenteria and Monteclito, a distance of forty miles.

T. T. T.

Having purchased from Los Angeles county thirty acres of land, only a short distance from the business center of the city, at a remarkable low figure, I have subdivided the same into lots, and will offer them for sale on and after the 1st day of April. Watch this chance and wait your time, as there will be bargains that will surprise you all. These are the cheapest and best lots ever placed upon the Los Angeles market. The Rapid Transit road, Krutz street car line and City Park are on either side of this tract. The largest locomotive and car works west of Chicago will be built only a few blocks away. Rapid transit, graded streets, beautiful views, plenty of pure spring water and delightful surroundings are a few of the numerous benefits derived by purchasers of these lots. They are within the reach of all, as the prices will be extremely low. For maps and prices call on R. A. Ling.

WOMEN'S DEPARTMENT.

The Associated Charities.

It is to be hoped that the mass meeting to be held at the First Presbyterian Church, on Tuesday evening next, will enlighten the people of Los Angeles on the subject of the associated charities; for hitherto its work, object and development have been as unintelligible to the majority of the community as Chinese characters. Of the extent of the organization in the west I am not informed, but I know that in New York, Boston and Philadelphia, it is regarded as almost as important as the Mayor, the sheriff, or the police. In those cities the Associated Charities have extensive headquarters and paid superintendents, while the work is classified with the wards and is subsequently placed in the hands of volunteer laborers. In sections where the field is ripe and the gleaners are many, the number of families consigned to one person is limited, which greatly facilitates the work. A competent visitor is thus enabled not only to understand but to meet the demands of each particular case; whereas, when he or she is overwhelmed with the care of multitudinous applicants for bounty, the way in which their wants are met must of necessity be general. In large and settled communities it is comparatively easy to deal with every phase of poverty and humanity: but in Los Angeles, of all places in the world, the question of giving and helping is a serious problem. To begin with, Los Angeles is essentially cosmopolitan, in consequence of which the burdens of many are cast upon a few. It is also the promised land to which the sick and infirm, the indigent and the incompetent of all creeds, ages and nations turn their wistful eyes, but which, when pressed beyond the limit of its capacities, cannot pour out to all its reputed wealth of "corn and wine." It is universally believed that California is ordinately aggrandized, by the tourists and the strangers who seek its sunny skies; and in many instances the supposition is correct. Yet there is no doubt but that the poor take quite as much as the rich from afar leave. Men who are too frail to work, women who do not know how to work, but who have a rose-colored fancy that they will be gladly received as companions or governesses; superannuated professionals, would-be mechanics, and lame, halt and blind, consumptive and rheumatic patients, who are no more able to take care of themselves than a baby in long-clothes is to deliver a Latin oration, daily pour into the City of the Angels. The climate will not feed them; indeed, circumstanced as they are, it will not even physically improve them, and the Government has no notion of establishing a free colony. What, then, is to be done to keep them from perishing in the midst of the warmth, the beauty and the abundance of Southern California? It is to answer this question that the different benevolent societies of this city have incorporated themselves in an organization called the Associated Charities. At the present time there are in active operation in Los Angeles the Ladies' Benevolent Society, the British and German benevolent societies, the Hebrew Benevolent Society and a number of small and more or less private enterprises. It is supposed to be the work of each one of these orders to look after and provide for its own poor and sick, but it has so often happened that an individual has been aided by two or three and sometimes all of the societies; that to avoid imposition and exterminate all kinds of pauperism it has been found necessary to effect some arrangement by which a fair and systematic plan of distribution could be carried out. If a German appeals to the Ladies' Benevolent Society, he is immediately referred to the President of the German society, who investigates his claim and does whatever seems to be wise and necessary to relieve him. If an Englishman goes to the German society for help, he is sent to the British society; but if any case proves too troublesome for any one of the societies to carry alone, then an application is made by the same, to the sister organizations, which readily extend a helping hand. To give individual alms, under any circumstances, is to go in direct opposition to the plans of the association, who, to benefit the public as well as the needy, are anxious to have all cases of want and helplessness placed in their hands. Such a system of relief is of the greatest advantage to the religious as well as the business portion of the community, as it saves the churches from the embarrassing necessity of refusing or giving to unworthy objects. The distribution of alms is the most delicate and unsatisfactory part of the work of a church with anything of a missionary character. It creates jealousy and anger and destroys the effect of the utmost spirituality. So that the minister or the layman who can say with a look of sympathy to whomsoever seeks his aid, "I belong to a society that will not permit me personally to do anything for you, but I will send you to Mrs. ——, who will help you without delay," can regard himself as extremely fortunate. If the applicant is what he or she purports to be, Mrs. —— will be sought as directed; but if, on the other hand, he or she is an impostor, it is very likely that no more will be heard of the case, for professional beggars are as much in awe of societies as they are afraid of hospitals. An old negress, who had exhausted the benevolence of all the societies to whom she had had access, and who at last unblushingly cast herself into the arms of a little mission with which I was associated, said, when I suggested that she should go to the hospital, "Sakes alive, no honey, I'd rather stay right yar an die in dis chair. Why don't you know they put you on the dissectin' table and cut you up alive, in dem places. I once was acquainted with an ole gentleman who had to give his nurse fire matches before he'd agree to keep the doctor's away from him. Lord, chile, you can't tell me nuffin' about hospitals." So it is with societies in which hearts and heads play equal parts. They are good for the community, but they are bad for the veteran, who knows the kind of scales they use, and who, in consequence, would rather have his woes weighed by individuals upon whom it is easy to impose.

Mattie Woolsteen.

Her face and manner are an index to her character. God and herself alone know what part she played in the Harlan tragedy. As with white face and tearless eyes, she sits in the court-room listening to the horrible details of the case, she does not look like a girl who, except in moments of frenzy, would be confidential about such an affair. She is not so pityful as most feminine culprits of refinement are. She is strong and self-suppressed; indeed, there is that about her which vividly recalls the hard despair of Hetty, the child-murderess in Adam Bede. In that instance, fictitious though it was, the novelist led the reader step by step along the unfortunate's downward way. It is impossible, in fact, for any one to read the story and not to understand the vanity, the weakness, and the subsequent madness which drove the wretched creature to kill the hapless babe, which she believed was the only evidence of her guilt. But there is no such faithful historian to stand by Hattie Woolsteen, and with the touch of an immortal genius to dissect her character and motives, and to point out the temptations by which she was beset. There is a hideousness, too, about the crime of which she is accused which awakens repulsion and congeals sympathy. If she had in the heat of passion killed the man, as it is believed, and had not sought to hide the deed by the burning of the body in the barn, the public would not gaze upon her as coldly as it does; for although nothing can ever wash from a woman's hands the traces of human blood, yet there are circumstances which can palliate her offenses. It is difficult, too, for any one to associate women and cruelty that is perpetrated cruelly together; for in their original conditions the antipodes are not farther apart. But for a wife or a maiden who has always lived peacefully under the shadow of home and conventionality it is well nigh impossible to realize the black side of which femininity is capable. Yet in every condition of life, the world is against a woman; while underlying the inherent purity and delicacy and lovliness of her nature, there is oftimes unsuspected dynamite entailed upon her purchance in a direct or an indirect line, from some dissipated or reckless ancestor. Moreover, love, which is but the fractional part of a man's world, is the sum total of a woman's world; unless like him, she has been endowed with an absorbing vocation, and then she too looks at Cupid out of the corners of her eyes. But when there is one woman who is sentimental in part there are millions of women who are sentimental in every fibre of their beings. Submission and humility are usually the prevailing traits of their devotion, but there are occasional women whose pride overbalances their affection and whom when they are wronged and neglected are stung into resentment. It seems that Hattie Woolsteen was one of the few in whom pride was stronger than devotion. That she loved Dr. Harlan there is no more doubt than that to him she was merely a pastime; while it is equally certain that while he was enjoying himself at the Brunswick billiard saloon, she was thinking of him, as alone and forgotten she traversed the quiet roads at Compton. Under the most favorable circumstances, Dr. Harlan was a dangerous companion for any girl; but in a strange place and without the slightest restraint upon her actions, it is little wonder that his influence developed all that was base in Hattie's nature. The strongest, the wisest and the best women are unconsciously swayed for good or evil by the men with whom they are associated, and as it would appear that Miss Woolsteen was neither particularly strong, wise nor angelic, it was a matter of course, that she should become domoralized by such an intimacy. If Dr. Harlan was not killed he deserved to be; but, in order to gratify the popular taste for such real-life dramas, her father should have called him to an account, and afterwards should have strode into police headquarters, flung down his weapons, and given himself up. In that case Hattie would have received the copious sympathy the public is so ready to extend to victims; yet, under the existing circumstances, she is infinitely more to be pitied than she otherwise would have been, and, guilty or not guilty, she should receive from every woman the most tender compassion.

Miss Kate Fields.

Although the newpapers have said so much about her within the past week, and although their really seems to be nothing left for me to say; I feel as though I could not permit her to leave Los Angeles without letting everybody know how charming I think she is. I am rustic enough to rise with the sun, and often to start out of a morning before anybody but milkmen and mechanics are to be seen upon the streets. I never realize the abnormal hours I am keeping until I surprise some one at breakfast, or arouse a slumbering household by pulling the doorbell. I make this statement, not as a bit of personal history, but to explain how it was that Miss Field secured my card before her shutters were opened. Well, she joined me in the parlor of the Hotel Westminster a short time later, and, as though it was the most natural thing in the world, asked me to accompany her to the dining-room. While she leisurely partook of her breakfast she entertained me in the most delightful manner. There is an originality and a vivacity about everything she says, while she is sufficiently cosmopolitan to interlard her most casual remarks with witty reminiscences or graphic descriptions of the multitudinous places with which she has been identified. She can make people laugh as easily as most women can make them yawn, but she can at will, too, awaken interest and sympathy. She gave me the simplest but most amusing account of a struggle over an open window which she recently witnessed in a railway car. The contestants were a lady with rush-of-blood to the head, and a corresponding demand for air, and a consumptive gentleman, with a violent terror of drafts, and who was enveloped in blankets and furs. Then she described the Lotharian exploits and the tragic end of a blooded dog who came West, turned Bohemian, and finally died ingloriously from injuries received in a duel with a plebeian canine. At its close she asked me to repeat the story and to point out the moral to an Irish setter to whom I am devoted, and who, although he was born in the Quaker City, is plunging headlong into the vortex of dissipation. But what entertained me most was her laughable description of interviews with some of the feminine crusaders of the Pacific Slope. "They seem to think," said Miss Fields, "that because I am interested in Mormonism, I must be interested in every other cause, too; and so they all claim me as a sister, and expect me to espouse the insane hobbies they represent."

Miscellaneous.

The March number of the Pall Mall Budget contains an interesting article on panoramas, and states that it was "The Siege of Paris," now on exhibition in our city, which, displayed upon the Champs Elysées, first conveyed to the minds of the traveling public the grand results of which such spectacles were capable. It further describes in the most realistic manner the cyclorama now on exhibition in London. It is the work of M. Philippoteaux and represents Niagara Falls aglow with the varied hues of autumn. The canvas is 400 feet in circumference and affords views of the Canadian and American falls, which are to be seen from the summit of the Prospect House. The writer further states that the silence of the vast scene is oppressive, and suggests that the management by whom it is displayed could not do better than to lay a steam pipe by which the sound of rushing water could be produced.

Miss Regina Buckle has arranged to open a select school of music at Santa Monica this summer. In addition to instrumental and vocal culture, and the proper discipline of the throat and lungs, the study of the languages will be annexed. The advent of so rare a musician has been hailed with enthusiasm by the residents of the seaside resort, who will no doubt do their utmost to secure her patronage. Persons who intend to spend their summer near the calm Pacific, yet, who do not wish their music to be interferred with, cannot do better than to arrange with Miss Buckle, whose ability as a teacher is exceptional. None of her conscientious pupils ever sing from their throats, get red in the face or intersperse their articulations with gasps.

Mrs. Jennie Philips, wife of the Rev. Howard Philips, of East Los Angeles, is a lovely woman. In appearance she is both vigorous and winning, while her manners are well-bred and easy, and her conversational powers are of the highest order. If the Church was not so exclusive in its views concerning the "sacredness of the desk," her husband when he is sick or absent could not do better than to appoint her as his supply; she is so persuasive and so eloquent.

It will certainly be gratifying to a great many people to learn that the city has presented to the Ladies' Benevolent Society, grounds upon which a home for the aged is soon to be erected. Old men as well as old women will be received, which in consideration of the fact that four or five helpless couples are already waiting to be admitted, is a humane and necessary provision. It is unmitigated cruelty to separate a feeble pair, who through long years of vissitudes have clung to-gether, and who tottering at last toward a grave almost in view, need the support and the sympathy of each other even more than they did in the days of "Auld Lang Syne."

Gems for the Cook.

WHORTLE-BERRY PUDDING.

Four cups of whortle-berries, one cup of sweet milk, three and a half cups of flour, one cup of molasses, one teaspoonful of soda.

HOME-MADE BREAD

(The very best bread that ever was made.) Boil until soft one dozen large potatoes, then mash them with salt and lard, add to the potato water half a pint of milk, lard and salt; when the potatoes are cool, rub them in floor until perfectly smooth, then add sponge enough to raise well, then potato water, mix all well together and thicken with flour, put in pans and stand in a warm place until light.

VEAL OMELETTE.

Three pounds and a half of veal, chopped fine, eight tablespoonful of cracker dust, one nutmeg, two eggs, three tablespoonful of cream, one tablespoonful of salt, one teaspoonful of pepper, a piece of butter about the size of an egg. Bake in buttered pans, with cracker dust, for two hours.

KISSES.

One pound powdered white sugar, whites of five eggs. Beat the eggs to a stiff froth; add the sugar by degrees.

FROM AZTEC LAND.

A Letter on the Flora and Fauna of Xalapa—No Jalap There.

I was very much pleased with Xalapa when I visited the place last year, though my stay was a short one. Yet it was not with alacrity that I came back this time, for the trip was an inconvenience, and interfered with other matters of importance. But the American physician in Mexico said, with some degree of impatience: "Very well; remain in Mexico by all means—engage your space in the Campo Santo, for in two months more here you will go there via the route of quick consumption. Your only hope is the hot, low country." So I came to Xalapa. It it is not so very low either; 4335 feet, I believe, is the accurate figure; but the vegetation may fairly be called tropical. Coffee plantations abound here, and produce richly; my hostess has some plants in her garden from which she gathers about 5 arrobas, or 125 pounds annually. Bananas pineapples, magnolias, liquid-ambertrees and the like flourish, and the tree-fern grows by hundreds. The whole region is a fern-bank; from every hedge-wall—for the fences there are of stones—on the tile roofs, down the sides of the wells even, grow exquisite ferns, and lycopodium, nidiformis form literally a carpet. Wild strawberries cover such spots as are not overrun by the other plants aforenamed; but the berries are positively tasteless, though very beautiful, of an intense scarlet, an exact copy of the toy berries sometimes seen in Swiss woodwork. Their blossoms are not white, but yellow. The flora is very rich here. Calladium is a weed in the ditches. There is an exquisite wild flower, called by the natives pink jasmine, which grows on a shrub at the waterside and fills the air with fragrance; and asclepius, and colemina, and a score of other plants which we carefully nurse in the gardens in California. Orchids almost too abundant; many of the trees are killed, choked out by them. They bear spikes or racemes of flowers, scarlet, yellow, purple; or perhaps great bunches of blossoms in hue and shape strongly resembling a bull's head; or great waxen drooping blooms like pendant lillies; in short, all the world knows how varied and fantastic are the forms of orchids. There is another flower, a trailer, indescribably beautiful, which bears bunches or sprays a yard long of blossoms in form and color almost the counterpart of purple hyacinths. There are many valuable medicinal plants; strangely enough the once world-famous Jalap [exogonium purga] is almost unknown here. Although I am hand and glove with the people of the Geographical Exploring Commission, who make special studies of such matters, I have been unable to obtain this plant, or even to get a description of it. There is apparently but one place near here where it is raised, and that is a ranch some eight leagues distant which I have been unable to reach as yet. The quina, the Zantholyxion Clava Herculis, whose bark is a powerful tonic; Hura Crepitans, whose seed is a strong purgative; cannabis indica or Indian hemp, from which is prepared the hasheesh. Euphoibia pulcherrmia, Hoitzia coccinea, the tonic Gnaphalium canescens, and many other plants of valuable pharmaceutical properties are found here.

As for butterflies! I never saw elsewhere such beauties. They shine and gleam like jewels. There is one variety whose wings, having a rim at their circumference, is perfectly transparent; and another, called the "figure 8" from two large characters like that numeral, outlined in black and white beneath the wings, touched up with scarlet, while the upper side is a brilliant peacock blue. Land shells too are abundant; my hostess has collected hereabouts over a hundred varieties, from those almost microscopic to the giant Glandina, whose shells are larger than a hen's egg. There are enough varieties of the feathered tribes, too, to gladden the heart of any collector. Here as elsewhere, the songsters are not remarkable for brilliance of color. The clarin, the gilguero and the primavera, all fine singers, are garbed in Quaker-like drab or brown, like the mocking bird, which also is common. All these birds are, however, expensive, if one select good specimens. Wild animals are not abundant in the immediate vicinity of Xalapa; lower down, nearer the coast, fine pelts may be obtained, of "tigers," that is to say ocelots, and of a number of animals whose names I do not know in English, not being well up in zoology, outside the genus homo. My old friend the opossum lives in the neighborhood, and does a thriving business, to judge from the complaints I hear of his raids on the henroosts. But I cannot persuade my Mexican allies that his is a flesh fit for the stomachs of Christians, although they will swallow his tail—dried and pulverized, be it understood, and mixed with sherry—as a specific for calenturas chills and fever. On the other hand, they regard as a delicacy the armadillo, which I have been used to regard as a little indiscriminate in his diet. I mean to sample the dainty myself, however for we have commissioned Tio [uncle] Chepe to bring some up from El Ranchito, where they are commoner, and therefore cheaper, a large fellow selling for 25c. The peons use armadillo shells for holding corn and other grain seed, and I have seen some handsome workboxes and handbags fashioned from this material. I am the proud possessor of a mandolin, whose body is of the same substance. Out in the corridor, in view from where I am writing, there stands on a bracket an animal whose first cousin I mean to annex at the first opportunity—an ant-eater, whose length of slender tongue measures some eighteen inches.

Apropos of this corridor, it is, I think, worth describing. It is in the rear of the main rooms of the house, and three great arches look down on the court and garden, overflowing with flowers, banana trees and coffee plants, to which we descend by a flight of stone stairs, easy of pitch and shallow, closed to the horse, who "dess loves to climb stairs," by a stone-weighted gate, which the two spotted Danish dogs, Sultana and Apollo, are forever dodging, as they open it with their noses. The corridor is thirteen paces long, and half as many wide; it is floored with square red brick-tiles, scrubbed so clean that "you could eat off them," and the rafters overhead project and form wide eaves, which protect us from inroads by the furious rainstorms that prevail here. There is a great settee, full of cushions, and a whole family of easy chairs, big and little; the great painted gourd, which holds the cigarettes and tobacco; a sewing machine, and a writing-desk; for this is the favorite lounging place of the family, and of visitors. We all live here, except when a bad cold spell drives us indoors, growling. Then there are three great cases, full of all sorts of curosities, from humming birds to ancient Aztec idols, and on the walls beside about "forty-'leven" cages full of canaries and other warblers, hang a number of deep glazed frames, containing some of the spoils of my hostess, in the way of beetles, butterflies and land shells, for this old Indian lady is a naturalist of the first water, and one day when my lungs do not ache and my hands cramp from much writing, I mean to relate a bit of her biography for the entertainment of the readers of the HERALD. Thus and therefore, hasta entonces!

FISH COMMISSION.

Its Usefulness Destroyed by Waterman.

Ex-State Fish Commissioner T. J. Sherwood sends the following letter to The Breeder and Sportsman, showing how Governor Waterman in his bigoted determination to oust all of the late Governor Bartlett's appointees, has paralyzed the work of the Fish Commission:

EDITOR BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN:—You will remember that when I last met you I was quite ill, and I will add that I have been confined to my room most of the time since. You will also remember that we had some considerable conversation relative to the Fish Commission muddle. As I am feeling somewhat better to-day, I have concluded to write you some facts. You are aware that I have done much work in the past year, and accomplished considerable good to that interest, of course, having been backed by my colleagues, Routier and Harvey. Six good fishways have been built on the Truckee river, at the several dams, leaving that stream in such condition that fish can now pass from Pyramid Lake in Nevada to Lake Tahoe, which has not been the case before in many years. Fishways have been built at dams of several other streams, five or six at least, and much good has thus been done in this direction. I had made arrangements with the lumbermen at Truckee by which they were to contribute lumber for me to build a trout-hatchery at Donner Lake, and I had secured the donation of land and water privilege in a very beautiful location, with plenty of spring water to run a hatchery and nurseries. I had the plan all done and estimates of lumber ready for a building 20x40 feet and which would turn out a million young fry each season; and being handy to Tahoe, Independence, Webber and Donner Lakes could furnish a fine variety of fish. I had intended to set men at work April 1st at this, having got the support of both Mr. Routier and Harvey in the matter. You are aware that I had many other matters arranged with system, that if carried out much work would have been accomplished this season, including 300,000 eyed spawn of the Rainbow trout from Henry Woodson, of Fort Bidwell, and 200,000 eyed spawn of river trout from Stevens & McKenney, of Wadsworth, Nevada, all to be hatched at the Shebley hatchery in Nevada County, and distributed early in the season. You are aware that we hatched and distributed about 200,000 young fry of Tahoe trout last year, and sent some below Colton into the San Bernardino Mountains, some to the San Gabriel River in Los Angeles County, some to Ventura County, some to Santa Cruz, and to various other places, giving them general distribution. You are also aware that we sent black bass into Yolo county and at three or four places in Placer county. We also had a large number of small fry put into the streams tributary to Lake Tahoe. Besides this, the work of breaking up illegal fishing had advanced considerably, and we were in a fair way to have accomplished much more good this season, as we had just leaned from experience what was necessary to accomplish more work. But under the direction of some designing person, or through ignorance of what was being done and what was required to succeed, the Governor has brought all to a stand-still, and now little can be accompli-hed this season, if anything. When the Governor made an order removing Commissioner Routier, and issued his commission to J. D. Redding, I supposed that would be the extent of the damage, and that on this case they would go to the Courts and determine the extent of the Governor's power to remove, and at that time it was so understood, and with such understanding and agreement by Mr. Redding, I voted to accept his credentials, or authority, as a member. Thus two members, Harvey and myself, were not in dispute, and could conduct the business without much inconvenience, until the Courts would decide the matter. But later it was feared by Mr. Redding that the case was against him, and another move was resolved on. This included the removal of Commissioner Harvey and the appointment of J. K. Orr, and thus compel me to join them and make what they claimed was a legal Board, and compel Routier and Harvey to bring an action to restrain them, changing the law tactics, and then Redding withdrew his suit against Routier.

Again, through the said designing person or weakness of the Governor this little plot was carried out. Under strong pressure by the Governor and the parties in interest, and considering the former action in supporting Redding, I was induced to join the new Board, and we held a meeting and organized. At that time the Governor assured us that our bills would be allowed, and that he would see that money was furnished to carry on the work of the Commission. But time proved that the promise was an empty one, and when a month later nothing had been done towards carrying out these promises, and I saw the work at a stand-still, and the tangle increasing, I told Orr and Redding that I would no longer be a party to it. They at that time professed a feeling to the effect that they did not wish to do anything to injure the work of the Commission, yet were not like myself willing to act, then and there, even to the extent of resigning, as I did do later on. At the time Orr was appointed and Harvey removed, February 3d, I tendered to the Governor my resignation as commissioner, but he then positively refused to accept it (his letter I now have;) but later, when he (or the said designing man) found that I could no longer be used as a tool to further the scheme of forcing Redding on to the Commission, he, the said designing man, or the Governor, did accept my resignation, again offered. Of course I am glad to be out of the miserable muddle as things now stand, for it is plain that the usefulness of the Commission is destroyed for the present. Now I have in this given you all, or nearly all, the facts in the case, and I hope your journal, as the leading sporting paper, will call a halt, and talk plainly to the said designing man or acting Governor. I am ready to prove the correctness of all my statements, as they are strictly true. I regret having taken any part in the effort to disorganize, and would not had I known the men better. T. J. SHERWOOD.

THE ADAMS SPRINGS

—AND—

Price Ranch Property.

In GLENBROOK, Lake Co., Cal.

This celebrated property comprises about 360 acres of land, varied in its topography, containing scenery rivaling Switzerland, and appreciated only by those who have sojourned in its loveliness. On the premises are the celebrated Adams Springs, a hotel containing 30 rooms, besides parlor, four cottages, lodging house of ten rooms, eight cabins for campers, large barn that will accommodate 21 horses; office and dining room opposite the hotel. There are two acres in apple, pear and plum trees, one acre in choice table grapes, about one hundred acres of fine valley land fenced and cross-fenced, and a large acreage of fine pasture land. The Adams Springs are renowned for the virtue of their waters, the analysis of which we have at our office. The elevation of the spring and hotel is about 3,300 feet above the level of the ocean; the scenery romantic beyond description; located on an elegant road, 30 miles from Calistoga and 18 miles from Lakeport in the town of Glenbrook, Lake county. This is an elegant opportunity for the lover of the beautiful and romantic; the party intent on business, as with proper attention this place can be made one of the most popular resorts in the State; the speculator, as a very great enhancement in values must from natural causes occur. A railroad will no doubt be constructed (being now agitated) within a brief period of time to run near this property.

A MEDLEY AT THE GRAND.

Notes of Professionals With The Plays They Present—A Dull Evening.

Karl Formes, the basso, has left 'Frisco for London.

Lydia Thompson started March 26 on a tour through the English provinces.

Charles Wyndham says that he will not come to America next season on account of the Presidential election.

Carmen Sylva, which is the literary nom de guerre of the Queen of Roumania, is writing a ballet entitled The Jewels.

Otto Hegner, a German lad of eleven, astonished Londoners with his skill as a pianist at the Prince's hall, afternoon of March 23.

A Narrow Escape was performed for copyright purposes the week of March 19, at Ladbroke hall, London. John A. Stevens produced the piece.

Evening of March 22, Peter Iltitch Tschaikowsy, the Russian composer, made his first public appearance in London. His debut was crowned with success.

Another dramatization of A. C. Gunter's novel, Mr. Barnes of New York, was presented March 23 by Rutland Barrington at the Olympic theatre, London.

The Puritan's Daughter, by M. W. Balfe, was sung March 23d, at Manchester, Eng., by the Carl Rosa Company. It had not been heard in England since 1861.

Camille d'Arville, the opera singer, sailed from England for America March 23. She comes over under engagement to the Duff Opera Company. She was here years ago with Lydia Thompson.

Von Bulow will appear in concerts in London June 4th, 12th, 19th and 26th. He will also conduct the last two of the Philharmonic concerts. He arrived in London March 22d.

The contract between Sophie Eyre and Aug. Harris for the production of Nitocris and She at the Drury Lane, London, is off, owing, it is said, to Miss Eyre's illness. Mr. Harris, therefore, revived A Run of Luck at Easter.

Minnie Palmer begins her English tour September 3d at the Prince's Theatre, Manchester. After playing in Birmingham and Liverpool, she proceeds to Dublin and Belfast, thence to Glasgow and Edinburgh.

Cuthbert Hare, in addition to securing the English rights to La Tosca, has purchased Les Surprises du Divorce, a funny comedy now running at the Vaudeville in Paris, and for which Aug. Daly has secured the American rights.

Patti has sailed from Lisbon for South America, where she will sing in Lakme at Buenos Ayres, Rio Janeiro and Montevidio. There will be much interest felt in her appearance in this new role. Maurice Grau sailed with her.

George Giddens opened the unlucky Novelty Theatre, London, on Easter Monday with a revival of Nita's First. The theatre has never been successful, but Mr. Giddens hopes that his personal popularity will be sufficient attraction to overcome the bad name of the house.

Sardou is said to have abandoned the idea of writing a libretto on the subject of Montezuma for the new work to be composed by M. Massenet for the Paris Grand Opera. He will take a story of French history instead, the scene, however, not in any case to be laid in Mexico, nor the title to be Maximilian.

The contract by which Manager H C. Miner becomes sole owner of Paul Kauvar was signed March 21. Mr. Miner will continue the play at the Standard this week, after which he will send the company to some of the larger cities for a short spring tour. He has also secured control for the next five years of all plays now in the possession of Steele Mackaye, or that may be written by him during that period.

Victor Nessler, the Alsatian composer of Der Trompeter von Sakkingen, has written a new opera whose scenes are laid in Strasbourg. The subject is the touching love story found in Spindler's poem, "Blumchen Wonderhold." The time is the middle of the sixteenth century, when Strasbourg was a free city, and there are scenes representing the great fêtes which took place there in 1576, on the occasion of an international shooting match.

Wilson Barrett denies the statement that he has sold the lease of the London Globe. It is, nevertheless, true that on February 23d he did sell the lease to J. H. Addison, receiving $5,000 down and the balance to be paid by March 26th, when the formal transfer of the lease was to be made. If Addison, who is a speculator, does not find a customer willing to pay an advance on the purchase, Mr. Barrett may continue at the Globe for a time, but as Addison's tenant. Mr. Barrett has also sold the lease of the Theater Royal, in Hull, to a local acting manager.

In the Supreme Court of Philadelphia, Pa., argument was heard March 22, to decide whether the performance of an opera was a theatrical exhibition. The question arose in the suit brought by City Treasurer Bell against H. B. Mahn, as lessee and manager of the Arch Street Opera House, to recover the theatrical licence fee for $200 for the year 1885. During that year the only performances given at the Arch Street Opera House were operas, consisting of airs, choruses and recitations. It was urged that the essential element of opera is music, while the essential element of the drama or theatrical exhibition is plot and action, dialogue and declamation. Decision was reserved.

Patti Rosa closed her regular thirty weeks' season March 31 at Kansas City, Mo. Manager John W. Dunne reports excellent business throughout the entire season, and speaks in the strongest terms of the first production of Fred Marsden's new play, Imp, which, with the customary alteration, will make it a most valuable adjunct to Miss Rosa's already successful repertory of popular comedies. On Easter Monday Miss Rosa, with a carefully selected company, will begin her Spring season on the Pacific coast. She will open a fortnight's engagement at the Bush Theatre, San Francisco, May 28, and close her California tour about July 1. The following people are in her support: Joseph M. Francouer, Theodore M. Hardy, Bert Coote, Thomas H. McGrath, J. W. Dunne, William E. Burke, Fannie E. Jacobs, Tillie Shields and Mattie Rudecil.

A. W. Pinero's Sweet Lavender was produced at the Court Theater, London, England, March 21, to a house crowded in every part. The cable says: "Sweet Lavender is divided into three acts. In the first, which is purely explanatory, Mr. Pinero has put the best writing, relying probably on the interest contained in the others to carry them through successfully. Edward Terry played the part of Dick Phenyl, a barrister with a fondness for strong drink. Phenyl is a reproduction of many men found in the purlieus in the Temple—good natured and generous, but weak. The actor gave the part a superb rendering, and as a character study, in which pathos and humor were exquisitely commingled, it was simply perfection. Brandon Thomas, though not seen till the close of the last act, played Geoffrey Wedderburg with a firm grip, and made a great hit. In fact, all concerned gave ample satisfaction. Whether the play possesses breadth in subject and coloring strong enough to be universally appreciated, time alone can tell."

Mary Anderson appeared as Galatea, afternoon of March 21st, for the benefit of Charles Abud, before an immense house, people being turned away. She was called before the curtain eight times. The occasion was also marked by the debut of Miss Neilson, a protege of W. S. Gilbert, as Cynisca. Miss Neilson is a handsome young lady, but decidedly amateurish. The frequent irritating outbursts of gesture indulged in gave evidence of over-coaching. All she did had so evidently been drilled into her, as to mar any good effect which might otherwise have been made by her efforts. Forbes-Robertson played Pygmalion and Zeffie Tilbury Myrine. Miss Anderson's closing night at the Lyceum, 24th, crowded the house. A congratulatory dispatch was received by her from Edwin Booth and Lawrence Barrett. At the close of the play she was called before the curtain and forced to make a speech.

The Next Dramatic Event.

One of the most pleasing amateur performances ever given here is promised for to-morrow evening, when a very bright comedy-drama written by the popular young elocutionist, Miss Mamie Short, will be presented at the Grand Opera House, under the auspices of the Oxymel Club. Those who have heard the rehearsals speak very highly of the play, and its successful presentation is assured by the personal management of Miss Short. The following well known young ladies and gentlemen will compose the cast:—"Mr. Harcourt," Mr. F. W. Harnden; "Harry Harcourt," Mr. Arthur S. Bent; "Mr. Barr," Mr. Chas. Batcheller; "Hervey Barr," Mr. Frank Finlayson; "Mike Craig," Mr. J. C. Foy; "James Craig," Mr. Chas. A. Vogelsang; "Officer Dalton," Mr. J. E. Costello; "Pedro Garvanzo," Mr. Louis F. Gottschalk; "Mr. Craig," Mr. I. S. Niles; "Judith Harcourt," Miss E. Greenwood; "Lillian Stanhope," Miss Lillian Fellows; "Mrs. Barr," Miss F. Lockhart; "Susie Watkins," Miss Josephine Williams.

This performance is expected to be quite a society event, and the stage setting is to be very fine. Reserved seats are on sale at Opera House box office.

Philharmonic Society.

On Friday evening of this week the first rehersal of the Philharmonic Society will take place in Bartlett's Hall, on First street, between Main and Spring streets. This society was formed for the purpose of presenting to its honorary members and the friends of both active and honorary members, the best and most pleasing music of the age. Since its incorporation, the society has been looked upon with favor, and now numbers upon its roll over 105 members, with 50 applicants yet to be passed upon by the membership committee. It was designed in the first place to limit the membership to 200, of whom it was expected about one-half would be active and the balance honorary. There is a movement on foot now to increase the membership to 400, one-half to be active and the others honorary.

The following is a list of the active members requested to meet next Friday evening at Bartlett Hall: Dr. Geo. H. Mitchell, Dr. E. M. Griffith, B. M. Marble, J. Maurice Franks, S. G. Miss Kate Field.

On Thursday night next week Miss Kate Field, of whom everybody has heard will deliver her lecture on "The Mormon Monster," under the aspices of Logan Post, Grand Army of the republic, at the Grand Opera House. The Washington, D. C., Republican speaks as follows of this lecture.

"Miss Kate Field's lecture drew out a surprisingly large and distinguished audience. It was a brilliant and admirable discourse, abounding in good points and witty thrusts, and the "Mormon Monster" was betrayed in all its hideousness. The audience was captivated and carried with the charming speaker, and interrupted her with many bursts of applause. There was a sensation when, at the end of a story of fraudulent Mormon divorces, she produced the actual paper signed with the name of the clerk of the court, John T. Cane, now the Mormon's delegate to congress. The Mexican minister, in whose country the Mormons are now preparing to establish their colonies, was a most interested listner, and the audience was made up of prominent and well known people. Among the most attentive listners were Senator and Mrs. Morrill, Secretary and Mrs. McCullough, Miss Lucy Frelinghuysen, Justice and Mrs Field, Senator and Miss Dawes, Mrs. John Sherman, Justice and Mrs. Woods, Justice and Mrs. MacArthur, Senators Chase and Aldrich, Gen. and Miss Schenck, Col. and Mrs. Rockwell, Mrs. Darwin James and Miss Whitney, Minister and Mrs. J. W. Foster, Mrs. J. R. Hawley, Mrs. McPherson, Mrs. Blair, Representatives Long, Taylor and Armstrong, Mrs. Gen. Lander, Miss Taylor, and among others a descendant of Brigham Young, who was one of the first to congratulate Miss Field after she had left the audience, and to assure her that every statement of hers was correct, and every story and anecdote paralleled and proved by his own experience and knowledge. Miss Field wore a very striking and picturesque costume made of American satin, black and crimson combined. She took the material with her from this country, and in Paris Worth relented from his rules and made the fabrics up into a dress of the Henri IV. mode, with puffed sleeves and waist, and slashed pieces showing the brilliant crimson here and there about the skirt and train. A slight indisposition prevented the President from attending, as he had signified his intention of doing, and he sent graceful regrets at the last moment.

Redondo Beach.

Eight passenger coaches filled with Redondo Beach excursionists left the Santa Fe depot yesterday morning. It was the first public excursion of the season to that beautiful seaside resort. Everybody enjoyed the trip. The weather was delightful, as the journey lay through a beautiful sketch of country, and the most lavishing hospitality was disproved by the managers. Accommodations had been provided for about two hundred persons, but the throng of ladies and gentlemen in waiting at the depot in this city, rendered it necessary to call for additional coaches, and these the Railroad Company promptly furnished. Nearly five hundred people were about when the train pulled out. General Frémont was among the party. A private parlor car attached to the train carried the Superintendent of the Union Pacific Railway Company.

At Inglewood the train stopped for fifteen minutes. The excursionists took a short stroll through this lovely suburb of Los Angeles. Then the journey seaward was resumed. Arrived at Redondo Beach, the excursionists scattered in all directions. Some strolled along the white, sandy beach to gather the precious pebbles with which the shore abounds, and watch the white crusted waves gently breaking on the beach. Others climbed the terraced hills to view the magnificent landscape with its glorious command of the ocean and projecting headlands. Others amused themselves watching the rafting ashore of lumber from the ship riding serenely at anchor, and the driving of the piles for the great wharf in process of construction. The work of the graders and excavators preparing the foundations for the Redondo Beach Hotel also attracted many spectators. At noon a bountiful collection of cold turkey salads and cake and coffee was spread upon tables on the beach. Every body partook most heartily of the feast of good things, and seemed to feel more than satisfied with the repast, for the salt sea air added a keen zest to ones appetite.

The hills encircling Redondo Beach are fairly carpeted with wild flowers of every hue, which fairly perfume the air with their fragrance. When the train at three o'clock left for Los Angeles, every lady and child carried a gorgeous bouquet, while the lappel of every gentlemen's coat was decorated with the gold, white or purple blossom which grows so luxuriantly in the vicinity.

An excursion train will be run to the Beach to-day, but not under the auspices of the Redondo Beach Company. Excursions will be run every day this week. On Saturday next there will be a special excursion for school teachers. On Thursday an excursion train runs to the Beach from Monrovia and Pasadena.

Love at First Sight.

Thursday M'lle Rhéa, Mrs. Ellen Wren Blair, the lady's personal friend, and others, came to Burbank. The madame, in fact the entire party, were so greatly taken with Burbank that she purchased 50 acres and Mrs. Blair purchased two lots in block 16, town of Burbank, and will immediately erect a tasty cottage to cost about $5,000.

When it is known that many other owners of townsites gave these ladies great inducements to purchase of their holdings, and that they bought Burbank property at the market price, our people should feel very proud of their fortune.

The ladies have seen nearly every townsite in the South, in fact the State, and when they viewed Burbank and the surrounding country they were unbounded in their enthusiasm. As M'lle Rhéa is well posted on the climates of France and Italy it speaks well for Southern California that she should choose this place of all others for a home. The madame says that next season, when she comes to Los Angeles, she will have a home here during her stay, or will stop at the Villa.

We believe the ladies have made excellent selections, for they are in the section much sought after.

Special Excursion To-Day.

The Los Angeles Co. R. R. has made special arrangements for to-day to carry the crowds who will undoubtedly want to see the lovely hills and valleys, in their beautiful array of wild flowers, presenting a truly georgeous spectacle. Trains will leave the Sister's Hospital every hour from 9 A. M. till 6 P. M., and only 25 cents for the round trip.

STOCK EXCHANGE REVIEW.

NEW YORK, April 7.—The stock market was on a lower level this morning than the final figures of yesterday, and, though there was no reaction, gains were again lost at close. London was seller at opening, and first sales were made at concessions from last evening's prices of from ½ to ¾ per cent. Subsequent buying by commission houses turned the market upward, with callers leading advance, which, however, was confined to fractional amounts only. Demand was soon satisfied, and prices receded. The close was heavy and weak at about lowest prices.

Governments dull; steady.

The petroleum market was quiet to-day, opening firm at 78⅜c., and after a slight decline the market became strong and advanced to 79⅝c. A slight reaction then occurred, and the close was steady at 79¼c. Consolidated Exchange sales, 873,000 barrels. Opening, 78⅜c; highest, 79⅝c.; lowest, 78c.; closing, 79¼c. New York Stock Exchange sales, 324,000 barrels. Opening, 78c.; highest, 79⅝c.; lowest, 78c.; closing, 79⅜c. Total sales, both Exchanges, 1,197,000 barrels.

Cure For Piles.

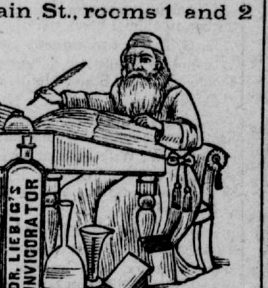

Itching piles are known by moisture like perspiration, producing a very disagreeable itching after getting warm. This form as well as blind, bleeding and protruding piles yield at once to the application of Dr. Bosanko's Pile Remedy, which acts directly upon the parts affected, absorbing the tumors, allaying the intense itching and effecting a permanent cure. 50 cents. Sold by C. H. Hance, 79 North Spring street.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The Last Week IN LOS ANGELES.

Dr. Liebig & Co.

The European Medical Staff and Special Surgeons and Physicans of the Liebig World Dispensary and International Surgical Institute, will be in Los Angeles until April 15, 1888 at 21 S. Main St., rooms 1 and 2

The surgical branch gives special attention to deformities of every kind, and all displacements requiring appliances for Curvature of the Spine, Hip Joint, Distorted Limbs or Arms, successfully treated by our new Voltaic and Magnetic appliances.

The medical branch devotes special attention to all Chronic, Complicated, Private and Wasting Diseases, resulting from badly treated cases of an acute or special nature, or from indiscretions of youth, bringing on Spermatorrhœa, Seminal Weakness, and an unnatural drain from the body which undermines the constitution; also Debility, Decay, Loss of Vitality or Manhood, which results from excess of maturity.

The reason so many are not cured of the above complaints is owing to a complication called Prostatorrhœa, which our treatment alone can cure.

Varicocele, wormy veins in Scrotum Stricture, blood and skin impurities, speedily cured; acute private troubles safely, confidentially and quickly cured. Catarrh of the mucuous membrane of the head or bladder successfully treated; also throat and lung diseases. Female complaints and all complicated delicate diseases of women carefully treated by our new method, whereby none of the usual physical examinations are required. Displacements of the Uterus and all special complaints peculiar to females successfully treated. Separate office for ladies, who should call between the hours of 2 and 3 o'clock to avoid the crowd. Office hours, 10 to 3 daily; Sundays, 10 to 12 only. Consultation free.

All languages spoken and written. Write in your own language.

DR. LIEBIG'S WONDERFUL GERMAN INVIGORATOR NO. 1, the only positive cure for Spermatorrhœa, Seminal Weakness and Loss of Manhood or Impotency.

The GERMAN INVIGORATOR NO. 2 is the only known cure for Prostatorrhœa, the complication that prevents the cure of above complaints in thousands.

Price, $2 per bottle; six bottles, $10; half size, half price. To prove its wonderful power, a $2 bottle will be sent free on application. Sold by all druggists.

The most powerful ELECTRIC BELTS free to patients.

LIFE ELIXIR AT LAST!

—AN—

ANTIDOTE

—FOR THE—

DREAD DISEASE

CONSUMPTION

Consumption has long been looked upon by the medical fraternity as incurable and the unfortunate victim who once falls a prey to its insidious fangs has generally been given over to die. It is known that the bacilli, or germ of the disease, first finds lodgement in those engines of the human system, the Lungs, through the impurities of the blood. These bacilli, or germs, soon develop into living microbes, which in turn feed upon the life-giving elements of the system.

Whatever remedy, then, that tends to destroy this microbe in its incipiency, before it has had power to fasten upon the system, inevitably tends to eradicate the disease.

THE REMEDY HAS BEEN DISCOVERED.

In a plain, simple compound, from a formula discovered by a skilled physician, in the course of an extensive practice, extending over a long series of years, and is given to the public under the name of the Microbe Destroyer!

Recent discoveries, by eminent foreign as well as local practitioners, have demonstrated beyond doubt or cavil that the bacilli or microbe germ is present, not only in all forms of pulmonary diseases, but in fevers, and cases arising from impurity of the blood, as well. Especially has this been proven in cases of Yellow Fever, Dengue Fever, and all forms of fever arising, directly or indirectly, from malaria. Hence it is that the

MICROBE DESTROYER

Is offered with perfect confidence as a panacea for all diseases of a pulmonary nature, such as

CONSUMPTION,
ASTHMA,
BRONCHITIS
AND CATARRH;

And for such ailments as arise from impurities of the blood, including Rheumatism, Loss of Appetite, Insomnia, Chills and Fever, and all FEMALE COMPLAINTS.

THIS IS NO QUACK NOSTRUM.

It is a simple remedy, that performs its work silently and surely, bringing relief to the afflicted, health and vigor to the sick and debilitated, joy and happiness to the despondent

It is Unfailing in its Results.
All that is Asked for it is a FAIR TRIAL.

TESTIMONIALS.

KYLE, HAYS CO., TEXAS, Jan. 11, 1888.

This is to certify that I contracted a disease that physicians called secondary syphilis in Mexico, in 1883, and was treated by several physicians in Mexico, and four of the most prominent medical men in Texas, Drs. Pain, of Galveston, Herff, of San Antonio, and I called on Dr. Reagan, of Kyle, and he sent me to Dr. Wooten, of Austin, and he gave me a prescription which greatly improved my disease. I returned to Mexico without any medicine and soon was as bad off as ever, when I saw Dr. Reagan and he advised me to try the Microbe Destroyer, and I gave him the money and he ordered two gallons and I commenced at once to take it, and before I had got through taking it I was well and had no syphilitic ulcers since I took the first gallon, which is three and a half months.

A Card to the Public from the Wife of Dr. Wilkes, of Houston.

Last year, about September, 1887, my baby girl was fast sinking with "summer diarrhœa," which the doctors said was due to an intestinal ferment of germ growth, though they could not check the disease. The little body was a skeleton of cadaveric hue. As all mothers, I tried doctors, and everything At last I caught the idea of your wonderful "Microbe Destroyer," and hope said, "Try it," and I am thankful I did, for her little sick stomach was quieted. The remedy was retained, the ferment ceased and my baby was rescued. In all such cases it has my utmost confidence. I myself have had a pulmonary trouble and am using it, and my trial of it so far has been most satisfactory. My appetite is improving and my weight is increasing every day.

Respectfully,
MRS. ALICE WILKES,
19 Polk st., Houston, Texas.

To Dr. J. J. Tobin.

AUSTIN, TEXAS, January 31, 1888.

DR. J. J. TOBIN, Agent Capital Microbe Destroyer:

DEAR SIR.—About three years ago I was attacked with erysipelas in my ankle and foot, and notwithstanding I sought and secured the best medical attention, the germs of the disease still remained in my system. About one year later I was also attacked with rheumatism in my left shoulder, and despite the use of every remedy known, I suffered intense pains, at times being almost totally deprived of the use of my arm. About two months ago, I was induced by a friend to give your Mibrobe Destroyer a trial. I did so, I confess, without the slightest hope or belief that it would benefit me. But I was most joyfully disappointed, and it is to acknowledge the blessing it has conferred upon me that I now write you. I began to experience relief after the first day's use of the compound, and have steadily improved since, until now there is not a trace remaining of either the erysipelas or rheumatism, and I feel as completely restored to health as I ever was in my life.

SCOTT PORTER,

AUSTIN, Tex., January 31, 1888.

Dr. J. J. Tobin, Agent Capital Microbe Destroyer Company;

DEAR SIR: About eighteen months ago my little 12-year-old daughter, LaRay, became afflicted with tonsilitis. At times she suffered intensely, and we despaired of her life. Her worst and most violent attack occurred about ten days ago, which it seemed a most impossible one for her to survive. Medical skill afforded her only temporary relief, and each succeeding attack appeared to be more severe and dangerous than the preceding one.

Induced by the happy results of your Microbe Destroyer upon my husband, I concluded to give it a trial. I began by giving her a wineglassful of the compound three times a day, and prepared a gargle which she took in the usual way. The effect was instantaneous. Heavy discharge of clotted mucous followed each time the gargle was resorted to, and a steady improvement was noticeable in her condition from the beginning. She is now going to school regularly and is in no way seriously affected by any bad results, arising from the disease. I feel that her cure is effective and permanent, and write this for the benefit of those who may be sufferers from the same cause, that they may know they can find a safe, certain and positive cure in your invaluable Microbe Destroyer. MRS. KITTIE PORTER,
No. 300 East Thirteenth street.

From the Wife of an Eminent Physician.

KYLE, Hays Co. Texas, Jan. 11, 1888.

This is to certify that I have been afflicted with ulceration of uterus for the last ten years, and had nasal catarrh the same length of time, and was treated for ulcer by Dr. Reagan, my husband, and Dr. W. J. Mathews, and had the counsel of Prof. Granville Dowell and Drs. Swearingen, Bibb and Carothers, and was treated for catarrh for two years by Dr. Mathis, and never found any cure till I took the Microbe Destroyer, and it has entirely cured me.

TO FERNANDO.

Those who Attended the Excursion on Friday.

The excursion to San Fernando on Friday under the auspices of the Porter Land and Water Co., was a great success in every particular, and the large crowd was delighted with the beautiful country. After a trip to the artesian wells, and lunch at the new hotel, the visitors were driven to the old Mission and out to where the planting of the large tract in oranges is going on. As an evidence of their appreciation a paper was drawn up in the following words and signed by many of those who were present:

We, the undersigned, having accepted the invitation of the Porter Land and Water Co., to visit and inspect their property at San Fernando, desire to express our gratitude for the excellent manner in which we were treated. The fine appearance of the country and the extensive improvements being made, prove that the land of the Company has not been praised near what it deserves:

W. C. T. U.

Fifth Annual Meeting Held Yesterday.

The fifth annual meeting of the Central W. C. T. U. was held in the Trinity M. E. Church Friday. There was a good attendance of interested workers.

The Secretary, Mrs. Fisher, reported considerable missionary work performed during the year; the employment of a city missionary; the formation of a Ramabi circle; the carrying on of gospel temperance work, and many other lines of work having been carried on.

The Treasurer, Mrs. Chubb, reported the receipts for the year $632.19.

Mrs. Ransom, Superintendent of Hospital work, gave an interesting report of her work done. Several of the inmates of the County Hospital had been converted. A number of those who have died during the year having been brought to a knowledge of Christ.

Mrs. Armour, Superintendent of Prison work, reported progress in this department.

Mrs. Gibson, Superintendent of the Social Purity department, read a very interesting letter which had been sent to all of the Unions, showing that this branch of work is not being overlooked.

Mrs. Southwick, City Missionary, gave an account of her work, which had been done in various parts of the city. Loyal Temperance Legions had been formed, Strangers' Socials and Boys' Socials were held, and without doubt much good had been done and will be accomplished. Twelve hundred calls had been made in six months in the interests of the work. The night school for news-boys, five evenings in the week, had been quite successful.

The following officers were elected: President, Mrs. Anna McIntosh; Recording Secretary, Mrs. A. B. Damon; Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. W. L. Steube; Financial Secretary, Mrs. T. J. Oliver; Treasurer, Mrs. R. J. Gillelen. Superintendents—Band of Hope, Mrs. L. T. Blanchard; Loyal Legions, Mrs. Annie B. Southwick; Scientific Instructor, Mrs. Anna S. People's Store.

The greatest day of all:—

To-morrow we will offer the finest line of specialties ever placed on sale by any house, at figures that will surprise the shrewest purchaser. All that is necessary to convince you of this fact is a call and examination of the goods themselves.

All wool plaid dress goods 39c. a yard:—

Our first special is a line of all wool pin check dress goods at 39c. a yard, a double fold material in the choicest of colors, and a fabric that would be considered good value at 50c. a yard. A limited number of pieces, and as this one as well as the balance of our locals are of such great value, that we fear many of them will be sold out early in the day.

Silk mitts 25c. a pair:—

Our second attempt is a line of pure spun silk mitts at 25c. a pair, including almost every shade made, and a line of mitts that will excel anything sold in this city at 50c. a pair.

Fancy dress goods 21c. a yard:—

Our main special of the day is a line of fancy spring dress goods in the very newest effects in watered style, plaids, stripes and mixtures of all colors—this line is by far the handsomest line of goods ever manufactured, to be sold at 21c. a yard, is their only condemning feature—worth no less than 40c. a yard.

Sicilian dress goods, 35c. a yard:—

The finest line of colored and black sicilians at the low figure of 35c. a yard—"Wonders will never cease" at this rate—in every conceivable shade. If ever you are surprised in values this one will eclipse all others; worth 65c. a yard.

Silk plushes, 98c. a yard:—

An extremely fine line of marbleized silk plushes at 98c. a yard, in every shade manufactured, from white and black to the finest tints, and a value that has always been sold at $1.50.

Yard wide muslin, 15 yards for $1:—

Yard wide unbleached muslin, extra good value, stout and firm body, at 6⅔c. a yard; worth 10c.

Chambray fancies, 6⅔c. a yard:—

A wonderfully pretty material in a cotton fabric at 6⅔c. a yard, consisting of strips and plaids in the very handsomest designs, making a stylish costume, at 6⅔c. a yard; worth 10c.

Cretonne prints:—

An imitation of the fine cretonnes; large designs; extensively used for furniture covering, draperies, curtains, etc., 6⅔c. a yard, worth 10c.

Yard wide French sateens, 15c. a yard:—

We have purchased at a forced sale a line of French sateens, entirely new, imported for this season; in choice and elegant designs, to be sold at 15c. a yard; regular price the world over, 25c. a yard.

Lace striped lawns, 7½c.:—

A very pretty material in the way of a white lawn with lace striped effects, at 7½c. a yard. A fabric that cannot be excelled for its service or beauty for children's dresses, aprons, &c.; worth 15c. a yard.

Corsets, 75c.:—

An extra fine French sateen corset in drab, silk stitched, full boned, side steels, and a world beater at $1.25.

Bustles 15c. each:—

The "Darling" bustle made entirely of wire at 15c. each; for shape, durability and comfort it has no equal and price for to day only 15c.; worth 25c.

Blue cashmere shawls 98c. each:—

A baby blue cashmere shawl 72 inches wide by 72 inches long at 98c. each, made special for to-day from $1.50. We have but 24, all told, in stock.

Childrens silk bonnets $2 49 each:—

A child's beautiful bonnet in light blue, pink, cream and cardinal, nicely trimmed in the very latest style $2.49 each; hardly the price of the material, worth $3,95.

Black silk fichus:—

A black Spanish guipure lace fichu almost 2 yards long, every fiber pure silk at 75c. each; worth $1.25.

Ladies hose 25c. a pair:—

Ladies fancy striped hose in the latest colorings 25c. a pair; worth 40c.

Misses' fancy hose 12½c. a pair:—

An extraordinary good value in the way of a child's stocking at only 12½c. a pair; worth 25c.

Misses' hose 19c. a pair:—

Misses' solid-colored French ribbed hose 19c. a pair, sold as a bargain at 35c.

Parasols $1.95 each:—

A line of satin and silk parasols in all colors at $1.95 each. Many choice and extra fine parasols among them, their values ranging from $3 to $3 50 each.

Ladies' jackets $3.75:—

An extra fine line of walking jackets made of all wool material, finished with a silk-lined hood, at $3.75 each, worth $5 and $5.50.

Ladies' black kid gloves 15c. a pair:—

Ladies black 4 and 3-button kid gloves in the sizes of 4¾ and 6 only, at 15c. a pair, worth $1.

CATARRH!

THROAT DISEASES, BRONCHITIS, ASTHMA,
CONSUMPTION

Together with diseases of the EYE, EAR and HEART, successfully treated by

M. HILTON WILLIAMS, M. D., M. C. P. S. O.,

Hollenbeck Block, cor. Spring and Second.

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED.

This has been demonstrated in thousands of cases treated by

DR. WILLIAMS.

With his new system of medicated Inhalations combined with proper constitutional remedies for the liver, stomach, blood, etc.

Probably no system of practice ever adopted has been so universally successful as that introduced by Dr. Williams for the cure of Catarrh, Throat Diseases, Bronchitis, Asthma and Consumption.

CATARRH.

Catarrh is often regarded by the patient as a cold in the head, and he often expresses his astonishment at his remarkable tendency to contract a fresh cold. Indeed, he declares he is scarcely free from one cold before he takes another; and he is always exceedingly careful; it is also a matter of surprise to him that the cold always seems to settle in the head and throat.

At times many of the symptoms of Catarrh may seem to abate, and the patient is led to hope that the disease is about to wear off; but another class of symptoms soon appear, and he learns to his horror that instead of recovery from the disease, it is somewhat changed in its character and has extended to the throat. A sense of weariness is sometimes felt in reading, speaking or singing, hoarseness at times occurs, a sensation of dryness is sometimes felt in the throat, or it appears that some foreign substance, as for instance, a hair, obstructed the throat; there becomes a sense of languor and fatigue, the breath lessens upon a little exertion, a short, hacking cough, a peculiar sound in clearing the throat, a feeling as though there was not room enough in the chest to breathe; these and other symptoms occur after the disease has made considerable progress. Then it is a time when consumption is about to begin its dreadful work. Up to this time the progress of the disease may have been slow, and the patient may, in expressing his confident hope that it will "wear off," declare that he has had the catarrh for years, and has not seemed to become much worse, and trusts that he will "by and-by" recover. But this delusion is the grand error which has peopled our cemeteries with consumptive forms, as all forms of catarrh end finally in consumption.

Inhalations are applicable in all diseases of the respiratory organs, but must be prepared for each individual case as they severally require.

By the employment of proper inhalation in the form of medicated vapor (not steam or spray), we are able to produce immediate and direct action upon the diseased surface in the pharnyx and nasal passages, for air will find its way into the most remote and intricate cavities, where it is impossible to make fluid applications. By these means every case can be cured.

Persons desiring treatment by this system of practice can use the remedies at home as well as at our office, and which will cause no inconvenience or hindrance to business whatever.

I have seen so many of these cases cured that I do not consider any case hopeless, unless both lungs are seriously involved. Even then the inhalations aid us in dissolving the mucus and in contracting and healing the cavities, which nothing else can do with the same success.

The very best reference from those already cured.

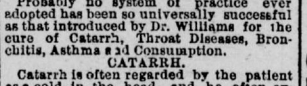

CONSULTATION FREE.

Those who desire to consult with me in regard to their cases had better call at the office for consultation and examination, but if impossible to do so, can write for a copy of my Medical Treatise, containing a list of questions. Address

Kohler & Frohling Tract

If you will Take Time to Examine the Sketch Below

AND SEE JUST WHERE IT IS LOCATED,

You will find it to be CLOSE INSIDE, with all the conveniences and advantages of living in the city. White within easy walking distance of all the central and leading points, it is accommodated by TWO STREET CAR LINES. Is under ELECTRIC LIGHT.

WATER has been piped to every lot. Streets are being graded, graveled, curbed and cement sidewalked on official grades, to be finally accepted by the city and sprinkled thereafter, thus making it, when done, the MOST COMPLETELY FINISHED TRACT ever offered in Los Angeles.

Special Inducements Offered to Immediate Builders.

It fronts on two of the great coming thoroughfares of the city, viz: SEVENTH ST., the greatest cross-artery of the town, and CENTRAL AVE., destined soon to be our most accessible and grandest drive, leading south through Vernondale and the richest horticultural portion of Los Angeles county.

In this section the greatest margins of the advance are yet to be and surely will come. More general improvements inaugurated and on foot in this direction than any other portion of the city. This ground, for healthfulness and comfort, is excelled by none. All things duly considered, it is undoubtedly the cheapest property offered in this market to day. WILL COST YOU NOTHING to investigate and judge intelligently for yourself, as I will be pleased to convey you to the property and show you its merits at all hours.

REDONDO = BEACH = EXCURSIONS!

THE REDONDO BEACH COMPANY ANNOUNCES THAT, COMMENCING

Saturday, April 7th, '88, Excursion Trains will be Run to Redondo Beach.

Trains will leave the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Depot, First Street, at 9:30 o'clock A. M., returning to Los Angeles at half past three o'clock P. M., so as to make connections for out of town points. Accomodations for two hundred passengers per day will be provided. Subscribers for lots are invited to call at the Company's office and secure tickets which will be furnished as near as possible in the order of their subscription, it being desired that the first subscribers who visit the beach Saturday can arrange for their selection at the Company's office on Monday.

Arrangements will at once be made for direct trains from Pasadena, Monrovia, etc., to Redondo Beach. Excursions will be run each day until and including Saturday, April 14th. Persons desiring to visit the beach, should decide upon the day and call for tickets as soon as possible, as the capacity of each train is limited.

FOR SCHOOL TEACHERS. Saturday, April 14th, is set apart as an excursion day for school teachers. All teachers in the city and county are invited. We can only carry 250 passengers, and tickets will be given to those teachers who call first. A train will be run Sunday, April 8th, but not under our auspices. Fare for round trip Sunday 75 cents. It is known that a great many residences are to be built at once, but to induce every one to build, the following generous rebate, in addition to the low price of lots, has been voted by the Board of Directors:

BUILDINGS COSTING THREE THOUSAND DOLLARS AND OVER, THIRTY PER CENT.
" " TWO " " AND OVER, TWENTY PER CENT.
" " ONE " " AND OVER, TEN PER CENT.

Buildings to be commenced within two months and completed within six months from date. The rebate to be taken off the payments for the lot on which the building stands. This fact, with lumber and building material at cost, insures a handsome sea side resort the coming season.

Price Lists, &c., Sent to Subscribers. R. R Tickets and Lunch Free!

EXCURSION FROM MONROVIA AND PASADENA THURSDAY, APRIL 12th, TIME TO BE ANNOUNCED.

In the Superior Court

OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA, IN and for the county of Los Angeles. Margretta P. Guentherodt, plaintiff, vs. Julius J. Guentherodt, defendant. Action brought in the Superior Court of the State of California, in and for the County of Los Angeles, and the complaint filed in said county of Los Angeles, in the office of the Clerk of said Superior Court. The People of the State of California send greeting to: Julius J. Guentherodt, defendant. You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above named plaintiff, in the Superior Court, in the State of California, in and for the county of Los Angeles, and to answer the complaint filed therein, within ten days (exclusive of the day of service), after the service on you of this summons, if served within this county; or, if served elsewhere, within thirty days, or judgment by default will be taken against you according to the prayer of said complaint. The said action is brought for the dissolution of the bonds of matrimony between yourself and plaintiff on the ground of wilful neglect on your part to provide plaintiff with the common necessaries of life because of your idleness; plaintiff living apart from you for such reason, and also said action is brought for general relief and for costs of suit. Reference is had to complaint for particulars. And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint as above required, the said plaintiff will take judgment by default against you, dissolving the bonds of matrimony between yourself and defendant, and for general relief.

Given under my hand and the seal of the Superior Court of the State of California, in and for the county of Los Angeles, this 11th day of February, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and eighty-eight.

NATURAL GAS.

The Wonderful Changes it has Effected in Pittsburg.

This city has long been known as the Birmingham of the New World, and it has been justly proud of the title. As a place for a comfortable home, however, it was formerly not to be thought of for a moment. Now, presto, all is changed. One utterly fails at first to appreciate the wonderful transformation that has taken place here during the last four or five years. The sky is no longer obscured by clouds of smoke and coal soot, and it is not now necessary to light the street lamps by 2 or 3 o'clock in the afternoon. From the heights of Mt. Washington, on the western side of the Monongahela river, I was able to obtain an excellent bird's-eye view of both Pittsburg and Allegheny City and of the hills beyond. The atmosphere was as clear as that of New York, and the large buildings were as distinctly visible as those on the lower part of Manhattan island as seen from the Tribune tower. A few years ago nothing would have been discernible but a black and smoky cloud overhanging and folding in like a blanket the whole valley in which the business portion of the two cities is located.

This wonderful change is due wholly to the substitution of natural gas for the soft coal of this region, as a fuel, both for domestic and manufacturing purposes. Through the courtesy of Messrs. Jones & Laughlin, the senior member of whose firm is chairman of the Republican National Committee, I have been able to make a very thorough inspection of their system of using natural gas in heating their large furnaces, boilers, and, in fact, everything else where fire is needed. The works are among the largest here. A single three-inch gas pipe, the valve of which was only about one-eighth open, supplied the gas for a large heating-furnace; in other words, only about one-eighth of the capacity of the pipe was required to furnish the necessary amount of heat. A perfectly steady temperature is maintained and, by proper care in regulating the amount of air admitted to the burning gas, very little heat escapes up the chimney. At the same time it is possible to put in a heavier cha ge and bring it out in much less time than by the former method, the gain in the output of the furnace being estimated at not less than 15 per cent. At the puddling furnaces the feeding pipe is only two inches in diameter, and the valve controlling the flow of gas was only one-sixteenth open. The large boilers for producing steam used in running the machinery are forty-eight inches in diameter and thirty feet long with six ten-inch flues. A boiler of this kind is fed by a two-inch gas-pipe, the valve in which was only one-half inch open this morning. When the boilers become hot and the flow of gas has been adjusted, they require little further attention, the gas flow being steady and continuous. There is no opening nor shutting of doors, no blank spaces on the grate-bars for the entrance of cold air, no shovelling of coal nor carting away of ashes, and, in fact, nothing for the attendant to do but to keep an eye on the steam-gauge and regulate the flow of gas as may be desired.

In addition to the heating furnaces referred to and the Siemens heaters used in the manufacture of steel, these works have ninety puddling furnaces and seventy-two boilers. The employes number nearly 5000, and the production of the works for a recent month, taken at random to indicate the output, consisted of puddled iron, 5900 tons; iron heated in ordinary Siemens furnaces, 13,000 tons, and steel production 7,300 tons. Of course all this metal was also reduced to bars, plates, etc., the steam to run the heavy machinery being produced in the boilers mentioned. Before the introduction of gas the works consumed over 300,000 tons of coal yearly, the whole establishment is now fed by a single gas pipe twenty inches in diameter, the pressure in which is only about one pound to the square inch. The pressure in the pipes, while subject to control varies somewhat at different times, but never, of late exceeds that mentioned, and the entire works have been run on a pressure of only three ounces to the square inch.

The wonderful heat-producing power of this gas is due chiefly to the fact that a very large percentage—in some cases nearly 90 per cent—of its hydrogen, the greater calorific qualities of which are well-known. A given weight in hydrogen will produce in burning three times as much heat as the same weight of carbon. The value of gas in an establishment of this kind, as compared with coal, is dependent in part, of course upon the conditions under which the two fuels can be obtained. It is estimated, however, that there is an average saving by the use of gas of 60 to 75 per cent, of which nearly one-half is represented by the cost of the fuel and as much more by the cost of labor and materials. There is no ashes to be carted away, no railroad sidings and trestles for moving coal cars, no switching charges, no wear and tear of wagons, carts, etc., nor is there a small army of employees to take charge of these adjuncts to the burning of coal, while, at the same time, there is a very considerable increase in the product of the mills. Indeed, it is confidently asserted that the mills could not afford to use coal if it were delivered to them free of charge.

The remarkable purity of the gas is another remarkable feature in its favor, and for this reason it is especially valuable in puddling furnaces, where the iron shows great readiness to mix with foreign substances contained in the fuel. Wherever the gas is used an unusually large quantity of air is required, as compared with manufactured gas, to insure perfect combustion, and there is no doubt but that great improvements in the construction of furnaces and other heating apparatus will be made as the facilities for preserving the gas are increased, and the importance of not wasting it becomes more apparent.

Glassmaking is said to be Pittsburg's oldest industry, and the annual product of its glass factories is placed at $10,000,000 in value. The natural gas is peculiarly well adapted for this work, and the glass produced is superior in every respect to that manufactured in the old way. Both window glass and plate glass are made of a quality equal to or better than those obtained from Europe; this is especially true of plate glass, and, as a consequence, the demand exceeds the supply. Manufacturers attribute their success directly to the use of natural gas. Not only is the glass better, but it is more economically made than by the use of coal for fuel, the saving, it is claimed, being equal to the cost of the gas.

In the use of gas for cooking, and heating dwelling-houses, the only modification of the old range and open grate, built for burning coal, consists in filling up the old fireboxes with broken stone, brick, or other [illegible] material. The gas is admitted at the bottom of the grate through an extension of the pipe which enters the house, and it distributes itself through the open stonework. The heat is intense. The convenience to house-keepers in starting and maintaining fires must be apparent.

The population of Pittsburg, including Allegheny City, is over 200,000. The number of houses is estimated at 50,000, in about one-half of which natural gas is the only fuel now used, and the number is constantly increasing. One gas company alone added over 3000 customers to its list last year. There is not a single manufacturing establishment of any importance which now uses coal or anything but natural gas for fuel. In fact, it is impossible for concerns using coal to compete successfully with those using gas. Conservative estimates, made by experts, give the amount of coal that is now being displaced in Pittsburg and Allegheny City alone by the use of natural gas at over 4,500,000 tons annually, and, if account be taken of the surrounding district, the quantity is much larger.—[Cor. N. Y. Tribune.

At Moonrise.

How hushed and quiet the gaunt poplars spring
Beside the lake,
Where the song-weary thrush, head under wing,
Is nestling half-awake!

The warm gay lights of evening linger there,
Or gently pass
Along the dappled water, and the air
No voice, no music has.

Low on the night's marge yonder, a big moon,
Cleaving the blue,
Comes up and silvers the broad shades which soon
The bats flit darkly through.

And visions, born of fancy and the night,
Glide to and fro.
Move with the dream-feet amid the solemn light,
And softly come and go.

Across the moor—else silent over earth
And sky's wide range—
Steals the low laughter of two lovers' mirth;
How sweet it sounds, yet strange!

BURLINGTON ROUTE.

Overland Excursion.

Passengers joining these parties are in the hands of a responsible railway company, not an "excursion agency"; its employes are its representatives, and accustomed to serving the public.

Dates.—Trains leave Los Angeles on Thursdays and San Francisco on Fridays, meeting at Sacramento Friday afternoon. Dates are as follows: From Los Angeles—March 15th, 29th; April 12th, 26th; May 10th, 24th; June 7th, 21st; July 5th, 19th; and day following from San Francisco, Sacramento, Tulare, Fresno, Merced, Lathrop, San Jose, Stockton, Davis, Marysville, Colfax and Reno.

First-class these excursions undoubtedly are in every respect, as no objectionable people are received, and each party is in charge of Burlington agents through to Chicago.

Free sleeping cars, properly provided with curtains, mattresses, blankets, etc. No extra charge for this, or for any other service.

Rates, $35.00 is the p..e of a ticket from Los Angeles, San Francisco and most California stations to any Missouri river point, and only slightly more to points further east.

Scenery by daylight is a great feature, as these excursions will stop twenty-four hours in Salt Lake, and go by daylight through the Black Cañon of the Gunnison, cross the Continental Divide through the famous Marshall Pass, thence down the Valley of the Arkansaw through the Grand Cañon and the Royal Gorge.

Further particulars are contained in Burlington Route excursion folder, to be had at any ticket offices of the Southern Pacific and other railways, and at Burlington Route offices below.

THIS TRACT IS SITUATED EAST OF LOS ANGELES,
Three-quarters of a mile from the City Limits; is surrounded by several townsites, including Humphrey's First Addition to Boyle Heights on the east, College Tract on the south and Hicks tract on the west, and lays within a stone's throw from the Presbyterian College.
The SALE'S TRACT consists of 160 acres of rich land, where water can be gotten all over. A finer panorama cannot be had anywhere else in the suburbs of Los Angeles.
Also street limits the Sale's Tract on the south and Brooklyn avenue divides it in two equal parts. In order to enable families with smal means to secure a comfortable home in this, our beautiful clime of Southern California, I have divided this tract in
